EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

Campbell's majority over Rankin is 735.

Thanksgiving Day will be the next legal holiday.

It still remains true that this is a bad year for the Democratic party.

It looks very much as if the country could get along very well without further service from District-Attorney Corkhill.

Grateful Democrats of Bellefonte present their compliments to all Republicans who so obligingly aided them in carrying this borough for Noble.

If the friends of Mr Conkling had succeeded in carrying President Arthur's own State for the Democrats, we suppose it would have been called a stalwart victory.

Bellefonte seems to have been the only place in Pennsylvania in which the Democrats made gains. Prominent Republicans have themselves to thank for this.

With the Solid South broken up, and with New York and Pennsylvania steady-going states, we should like to know upon what the Democrats are able to base a shadow of a hope for electing a President in 1884.

The selection of a State capital is a matter of painful interest to several millions of school children, if the time honored process of memorizing the abiding-places of Governors still goes on. Colorado, which has used Denver as a temporary capital, without, however, erecting State buildings, has voted to make it the permanent capital, and will now probably proceed to adorn it, after the manner of States, with choice specimens of half-baked Græco-American architecture.

Wolfe's poll shows that there are 45,500 independent voters in this State. The election in New York state this fall demonstrated, as the election two years ago did, that the Republican party there has nearly 29,000 movable voters, who are sure to drop off from any candidate against whom any considerable body of voters have a serious objection. It may be one set of voters who furnish this contingent one year and another another; but there it is, a vital factor in elections. The Republican vote of the two States, Pennsylvania and New York, a vote of over 1,000,000, furnishes in all, therefore, from 75,000 to 100,000 voters not merely who may, but who are certain to, vote as they please. Isn't it about time the men who managed in both States studied election returns? Isn't it wiser to begin now than to wait, say, until this time next year?

It is well to emphasize one fact which Tuesday's election sufficiently demonstrates in regard to New York. We were told over and over again last winter and spring that that State would have been lost to Garfield but for the tremendous exertions of Senator Conkling and his friends. Their sole ground for their warfare upon the President was that they were his saviors in having carried New York for him. There never was any ground for the claim, and Tuesday's election shows plainly enough that there was not. Mr. Conkling and his friends made no exertion whatever for this year's ticket, but according to their own confessions worked for its defeat. Yet the ticket was elected without the stimulus of a Presidential election to pull it through. A Republican Legislature was not elected, chiefly because the people would not consent to send back the men who misrepresented them in sustaining Mr. Conkling last summer.

Republicans in Congress.

Among the most unpleasant results of the late elections to the Democrats is the unexpected accessions of strength which the Republicans in that body have received. They are summarized as follows:

The election in Virginia has probably determined the course of the two independent members from that State. Had the Bourbons triumphed, these members might have found no political standing-place in Virginia except in the Democratic party. But political independence has triumphed. The power of Bourbonism has been broken. These members now know that the real wishes of their constituents will find expression at the polls, and will not be defeated next year by fraudulent voting or false counting. Knowing this, these members are free from all anxiety as to their own course. They can act with General Mahone freely knowing that the people of Virginia are with them. It is reasonable to expect that they will support the Republicans in the House as heartily as the Republicans of Virginia supported General Mahone in the recent election. This alone will give a clear majority to the Republicans, and power to elect any candidates that are not personally objectionable.

But the Democrats had miscalculated in other respects. They had counted upon the vote of Mr. Smith of Brooklyn, who, however, was for years an earnest Republican. His confidence in that party is not likely to be diminished by the splendid fight it has made and the honorable victory it has achieved in his own city. There is every reason to believe that he will heartily cooperate with the Republicans in the organization of the House, and upon other questions whenever compelled to choose between the Republican and Democratic parties. Hope has been cherished by Democrats as to a Pennsylvania member who was elected by the aid of Greenback votes, but it is positively stated that he also will act with the Republicans in the organization. Finally, no coalition between Democratic and Greenback members could have succeeded without the votes of four members from Missouri, who though elected by the aid of Greenback votes, were earnest Republicans as respects all issues between the Republican and Democratic parties. If it had happened that the few Greenback members could prevent the election of a candidate of either party, there might have been some excuse for apprehension. But the certainty that the Republicans will have power to elect in any case, with the votes of the two Virginia independents and Mr. Smith, of Brooklyn, or of either one of the three, will prevent any effective combination against them. Probably four members from Missouri will see fit to join with the party to which, as respects all issues between the two parties, their convictions incline them.

The control of the Senate for the present is already assured by the position of Senator Davis and Senator Mahone. But the Republicans can now count with certainty upon the co-operation of another Senator from Virginia, as soon as the successor of Mr. Johnston has taken his seat, and they have good reason to hope for the election of Republican Senators from New Jersey in place of Mr. McPherson, and from Oregon in place of Mr. Grover. With complete control of both branches of Congress, and with the White House occupied by President Arthur, the Republican party can claim with reason that its position is stronger than it has been at any time for several years.

The governors are all trying to make their Thanksgiving proclamations short and terse this year. That of Governor Long, of Massachusetts, consisted of four texts of scripture and a hymn.

After the Battle.

Perhaps a more peaceful battle of the ballots never occurred than that of Tuesday. This was the case in every State that voted excepting Mississippi, where the Democrats again attempted to renew their horrid work of political butchery and murder. But viewing the field after the conflict is ended and the smoke cleared away, what is the lesson to be learned?

It certainly was not a red-letter day in Democratic books. The October elections did not afford much hope for that party, and the triumphs of Tuesday hardly warrant the production of the traditional exultant rooster. The returns do not reveal any serious Democratic disaffection, while there was a decided split in the ranks of the Republicans. But on the other hand the result is as much a warning as a reward to the victors.

Mr. Cooper is probably right in assuming that had the canvass been extended a few weeks, the regular Republican ticket would have received a considerable larger support. There was abundant evidence that Mr. Wolfe was daily losing ground. The course pursued by himself and by his managers was calculated to increase the reluctance with which men break away from their affiliations. Political amateurism never wears well. Mr. Wolfe's candidacy had no sufficient reason for being, Whether he became a candidate under a sudden impulse, or whether he was advised by men moved by equally sudden impulse we cannot say. But his candidacy was a mistake. It would have been a mistake under any circumstances that ruled prior to and at the nomination of General Baily. In the first place, there was no earnest, organized effort to nominate anybody else. The convention met and voted for Baily by nearly a two-thirds vote. There was no charge of fraud preferred against the convention. The revolt of Mr. Wolfe was simply a revolt against the neglect of himself and others to organize and work for Davies. Of course, he gave it another name, but it is unnecessary to ignore the facts. It was organization and work against happy-go-lucky indifference. And work won as it always wins.

But apart from these considerations, it was an inexcusable mistake to undertake a revolt in a year when it is always impossible to command a full vote. As no party can show its strength in such a year so no revolt can secure its actual following. There was nothing to bring the people out this year. The excitement of the campaign of 1880 had exhausted popular enthusiasm. The Republican leaders may properly thank Mr. Wolfe and his advisers that he and they were born a year too soon. But they may as well remember that they owe as much to the abstention from voting at all as they do to management. We could not be true to the party did we not embrace this opportunity to admonish them' and to urge broader and more liberal views upon such as exercise leadership. Otherwise Mr. Wolfe's mistake will serve as a finger-post to direct some equally bold man on a path which may be pleasanter to the feet of Republicans who do not say a great deal, but who keep up a steady thinking.

Queen Victoria has, for the first time in many years, witnessed a theatrical performance. It took place at Abergeldie, and the Prince of Wales showed much interest in all the arrangements. The play was Mr. Burnand's "The Colonel," which ridicules the æsthetics. The prince prince and his wife permitted the manager to use part of the furniture of their drawing room, and the prince attended the performance in Highland costume. A programme, printed on pink satin and bordered with lace, and a bouquet of white flowers mounted with white crepe, were presented to the Queen.

An anonymous correspondent of the New York Times calls attention to a grave danger which threatens the United States from the proposed Canadian Pacific railroad. He demonstrates that the syndicate of capitalists now engaged in the construction of this road is to receive from the Canadian government, in cash, land and a completed section of the road, seven hundred and fifty miles long, a gratuity of not less than $100,000,000; that the road, when completed to Port Moody, on the Pacific coast, will bring Chicago two hundred miles nearer the Pacific than any American route can do, and will thus capture the important trade of China and Japan; that the policy of the railroad company in inducing settlement along its line will not only institute a disastrous competition, against the American farmer, but will even tempt him across the line, and last, but not least, that a fatal blow had been struck at American industries and our protective tariff by the admission of all the iron and steel needed for the road free of duty—a concession which he values at $10,000,000 more. The correspondent considers that if all these advantages showered upon the Canadian Pacific road do not bring the American farmers to their alleged senses, and cause them to forego the pernicious doctrine of protection they are much more blind to their own interests that he takes them to be. Possibly this is true; but there may be hope for American principles yet. The Saskatchewan valley is very big and very fertile, but there are also occasional fertile spots of considerable extent on the southern side of the line, and there are people who prefer a milder climate than that of Manitoba, and will run their chances of having a living secured to them by reason of freight rates and local circumstances. The Canadian Pacific will not entirely depopulate the United States. Moreover, the road is not yet built, and there are people who, considering the enormous climatic, topographical and financial difficulties in its way, do no believe it ever will be. Should these people be mistaken, and the road placed in running order from end to end, its operating expenses are sure to be enormous, especially in the long northern winter, when it will have to be operated through tremendous snow drifts. It will run through hundreds of miles of unproductive country, and, altogether, it will neither be easy nor economical in its working. It may be fairly presumed that the $16,000,000 saved in its imports of iron will be more than exhausted in its running expenses, and that the American manufacturer may breathe freely so long as the protective tariff is threatened by no more formidable enemy than the Canadian Pacific railroad.

The number of standard dollars coined under the $2,000,000 a month limitation of the Bland bill is now a little over $100,000,000. About one-third of this is in circulation, and the other two-thirds in the Treasury, but represented by silver certificates, so that the full amount is practically a part of our currency, and anything that will answer this purpose, however imperfect, is in strong demand. Mutilated coins serve almost as well as whole ones, and trade dollars, which have no legal tender value at all, pass current at a considerable percentage above their bullion value. While the fears of those who opposed the silver coinage Act of 1879 have not been realized, it yet remains to be seen whether or not they were groundless, and whether the United States can continue indefinitely injecting depreciated dollars into its currency without ultimately debasing it and driving its gold currency out of the country.

A society for the importation of servant girls has been formed in Canada, where the household help question appears to be as great a nuisance as it is in "the states."

James G. Blaine has resigned the chairmanship of the Maine Republican State Committee. In itself this is a fact ordinarily of little consequence, but it is noticeable in that Mr. Blaine has held the positon for almost a quarter of a century. No politician has held a similar position for so long a time; almost any other politician who had the same opportunities would before now have become known as a notorious Boss of a machine which crushed all kickers. With Mr. Blaine it has not been so, and the unanimous resolution of the Maine Committee shows in what regard he is held at home. It is all the more striking coming from honest farmers and not from sharp city men with points to make. To be sure, Maine is not big enough for a very large machine; but if there had been one there would have been kickers to make a noise before now. Mr. Blaine is the inventor of the word 'Stalwart,' and has been a stalwart all his life. At the same time he has had the sympathy and been in sympathy with reform in other States, and especially in his native State of Pennsylvania, during his whole political career. No other leading Republican can show such a record of combined stalwartism and independence, a record which is a model of true Republicanism.

Why do all the third-termers get so hot over the publication of reports that President Arthur's new Cabinet will be Grant from top to bottom? Are they willing to admit that such a Cabinet would be a bad thing for the President and for the country? If it would be a good thing why is it an act of hostility to President Arthur to say he will appoint it? If Grantism is a good thing, we can't have too much of it, can we?

Bellefonte borough was carried by Noble by four majority. Baily's majority should have been eighty. This result was brought about by a corrupt bargain and sale. Rankin's majority was 178, which explains why it was done. How is this for Stalwart Republicanism?

Quay for Reform.

Harrisburg, Nov. 11.—Secretary Quay reached here this evening and seems unusually happy over the result of last Tuesday's election. In conversation with a Press representative this evening, Mr. Quay made public some exceedingly interesting information. He declared himself for Galusha A. Grow for Governor, and further said that Philadelphia shall be represented on the ticket next year, and that Joseph L. Caven will be a highly proper selection for Lieutenant Governor. Being asked whether this represented the views of Senator Cameron, he said he had not consulted Senator Cameron on the subject, and knew nothing of his views, but thought that Mr. Cameron would concur in any views his friends conceived to be for the best interest of Republican organizations in the State. Mr. Quay thought that five-sixths of those who cooperated in the nomination and election of General Baily would concur in these views on the subject of Wolfe and his future. Mr. Quay said that the Union County reformer has demonstrated that he is able, personally, to draw largely from the Democratic party in case of necessity. That he is a very good slab of timber to have lying around the Republican kitchen, but, owing to the feeling among the supporters of the regular Republican ticket, his popular strength could not be immediately crystalized. Secretary Quay further said the commencing with the statement that Quay had called the convention of 1880 to nominate Grant, Mr. Wolf had enunciated a large number of misstatements concerning him in the campaign. For most of them there was some foundation in fact, but the superstruction added by Mr. Wolf was utterly rotten with falsehood, and proved that Mr. Wolf was either very romantic or very gullible.

What does the above flop mean? Does Quay think that Gen. Beaver left his political remains at Harrisburg in the last Senatorial contest? Or is Quay fearful lest Grow may stand in the way of the faithful Don for the next vacancy in the U. S. Senate? Or is it a little game to catch gudgeons from the Wolfe fold? Rise up, Lieutenant General Quay, and unfold.

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

Washington, Nov. 7.—The following proclamation was issued from the department of state to-day:

By the President of the United States of America—A proclamation: It has long been the pious custom of our people, with the closing of the year, to look back upon the blessings brought to them in the changing course of the seasons, and to return thanks to the All Giving Source from whom they flow. And although at this period when the falling leaf admonishes us that the time of our sacred duty is at hand, our nation still lies in the shadow of a great bereavement, and the mourning which has filled our hearts still finds the sorrowful expression toward the God before whom we lately bowed in grief and supplication, yet the countless benefits which have been showered upon us during the past twelve months call for our fervent gratitude, and make it fitting that we should rejoice with thankfulness that the Lord in His infinite mercy has most signally favored our country and our people. Peace without and prosperity within have been vouchsafed to us. The abundant privileges of freedom, which our fathers left us in their wisdom, are still our increasing heritage. And if, in our vast domain, some affliction has visited our brethren in their forest homes, yet even this calamity has been tempered and in a manner sanctified by the generous compassion for our sufferers which has been called forth throughout our land. For all these things it is meet that the voice af the nation should go up to God in devout homage. Wherefore I, Chester A. Arthur, President of the United States, do recommend that all the people observe Thursday, the 24th day of November, as a day of national thanksgiving and prayer, by ceasing, so far as may be, from their secular labors and meeting in their several places of worship, there to join in ascribing praise and honor to Almighty God, whose goodness has been so manifold in our history and in our lives, and offering earnest prayers that his bounties may continue to us and to our children.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this fourth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and sixth. (Signed.)

Chester A. Arthur

By the President:

James G. Blane,
Secretary of State

Give Thanks.

Harrisburg, Nov. 10.—Governor Hoyt this afternoon issued his Thanksgiving proclamation as follows:

In the name and by the authority of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Henry M. Hoyt, Governor of said Commonwealth.:

A PROCLAMATION.

During a season of drought and partial failure of the harvests, which in a less fruitful land would have brought famine and distress, and in a time of public trial and tribulation, which under less happy institutions might have led to dissension and strife, the people of the United States, and particularly of Pennsylvania, have been preserved in health, in estate and in peace.

Now, therefore, I, Henry M. Hoyt, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do ordain and set apart Thursday, November 24th, A. D. 1881 (being the same day appointed by the President of the United States), for the observance of those religious services, recognizing the beneficence and care of the Father of us all, and those household customs, strengthening the bonds of families and common brotherhood, in which the time-honored traditions of the Commonwealth have embodied the thanksgiving and prayers of a greatful people.

Given under my hand and the great seal of the State at Harrisburg, this tenth day of, November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one, and of the Commonwealth the one hundred and sixth.

Henry M. Hoyt,
Governor.

By the Governor:
M. S. Quay,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

A Heavy Snow-Storm in the West.

St. Louis, Nov. 14.—Advices from Kansas City say that Santa Fe trains have been delayed by a snow-storm for nearly thirty-six hours. It has been snowing hard in Western Kansas, Colorado and New Mexico. From Kakin west to Pueblo there are from six to eight inches of snow, while from La Junta west there are from eighteen to twenty inches. The cuts are full of snow and a strong wind is drifting it badly. This is the heaviest snow in New Mexico and Colorado that the Santa Fe Railroad has ever encountered.

Poetry.

Our Lost.

They never quite leave us, our friends who have passed,
Thro gh the shadows of death to the sunlight above.
A thousand sweet memories are holding them fast
To the places they blessed with their presence and love.

The work which they left and the books which they read,
Speak mutely, though still with an eloquence rare,
And the songs that they sung and dear words that they said,
Yet linger and sigh on the desolate world.

And oft, when alone, and as oft in the throng,
Or when evil allures us or sin draweth nigh,
A whisper comes gently, "Nay, do not the wrong,"
And we feel that our weakness is pitied on high.

We toil at our tasks in the burden and heat
Of life's passionate noon. They are folded in peace.
It is well. We rejoice that their heaven is sweet,
And one day for us all the bitter will cease.

Until then we are bound by our love and our faith
To the saints who are walking in Paradise fair;
They have passed beyond sight, at the touch ing of death,
But they live, like ourselves, in God's infini te care.

Our Story Teller.

The Beauty's Choice.

Mrs. Hawley's prettiest boarder was the bit of a blonde girl named Florence Castleton. It was a romantic name and she had a romantic history. Her parents were dead, she was the heiress of their property, and had a guardian. He had been in love with her mother, and was very jealous of the daughter's guardianship, treating her with arbitrary power, and teasing her quite as much as pleasing her with his affection.

Yet it was quite exasperating to the young men to see her hanging on his arm, and he a handsome bachelor of only 40. He boarded at a hotel; she had Mrs. Hawley's prettiest set of rooms. They were furnished by herself, and most charmingly, in rosewood and blue damask. She had canaries and a paroquet, and a King Charles spaniel, and a maid under her authority, and it was but a short time after her arrival before every young man in the house was markedly subservient to her.

There were four young men in the house—Charley Childs, Fred Grove, Leonard Martin, and Dick Manchester—all bright, agreeable marriageable young men, and all adm rers of Florence Castleton. Finally, there was another; but he was too plain and bashful to be admitted to the elegant ranks of Miss Castleton's galaxy of beaux, and no one thought of his being any one's lover.

His name was David Atwood. He was a book-keeper, was plain in dress, and evidently straightened in means. —He had one of the smallest of Mrs. Hawley's side rooms, spent all of his days and most of his evenings in the office where he was employed; never went to theaters or the opera, and posessed not the slightest style of manner.

The others laughed at him—he was so shy and awkward and bashful. And Florence Castleton often joined the laugh, silverly: yet no one offered him any disrespect. Indeed, they all acknowledged him to be 'a good young man, but so homely and awkward!'

Florence Castleton had a very pretty voice for singing, and used to play upon a guitar, a beautiful one, inlaid with pearl, which her guardian had given her.

One evening, after David Atwood had resided in the house about six weeks, she brought it down to the parlor and sat down to play.

The young men gathered around to sing with her. Young Martin sang very well, and Charley Childs sang better. While they were singing David Atwood came in.

He slipped into a corner, and sat down in his shy way, and was unnoticed until Dick Manchester, who was restless for michief, called out: 'Mr. Atwood, won't you come and sing with us?'

'I do not sing,' he said quietly.

'Nor play?' asked Dick.

'Only upon the violin,' he answered.

Florence was strumming her guitar carelessly.

'Won't Mr. Atwood let us hear him play upon the violin?' asked Dick glancing shyly at Martin, as if he was starting game. All awaited Atwood's answer with a certain degree of interest.

'I have not used it since I came here. I will unpack it, and if none of the strings are broken I will play,' said Atwood, and he rose quietly and left the room.

'How could you say that, Dick? He probably plays execrably,' said Miss Jeanette Manchester, Dick's sister.

'I never knew a country bumpkin who hadn't a fantasy for a fiddle,' said Martin. There, he's coming back!—Now, if any one has fastidious musical sensibilities I would advise him to decamp.'

'I'll stay,' answered Dick.

'We'll all stay and see the fun,' said Grove, sitting down by Miss Castleton.

David came in. I began to understand what was coming as he bent his head over the violin and drew the bow lightly across the strings. In a moment he glided into an air of Verdi's, so light and graceful that it was like the fall of sea spray. Every ear and eye was given in wrapt attention; some in delight, some in troubled doubt; as if they could not believe their own senses; some in spleen and envy, and all in amazement. Astonishment was the prevailing emotion.

When he had finished the opera air, he asked: 'Is there any tune you would particularly like?' and he glanced toward the side of the room where Florence Castleton sat, rather than at Dick and Martin.

'Will you play the 'Phantom Chorus from Faust?' asked Florence.—And the mild, sweet tones came forth obediently, in beautiful perfection. Air followed air. The company sat spell-bound until the suddenly revealed musician laid down his bow. A chorus of eulogistic phrases and expressions of gratitude followed, but David Atwood smiled only at Florence Castleton's simple remark. 'We thank you!'

He left the room. A little after I went through the hall and met him.

'You have surprised and delighted us all with your performance Mr. Atwood,' I said.

He smiled.

'I learned to play to please a little sick sister I had once,' he answered. 'Since she died I do not care to play much, although I love music.'

Just then Florence Castleton flitted by and went up stairs. I thought she heard what he said.

'Do you think she liked it?' he said with amusing simplicity and directness,

'Yes I am sure she did,' I answered.

It soon became perceptible to all observing people how much David Atwood was in love with Miss Castleton. He would turn pale every time she spoke to him, and once, when he brought her a chair in an awkward hurry, I saw him trembling like a leaf under her beautiful eyes. They were together that evening, with three or four others, in the parlor.

'Miss Castleton,' said a pretty little school girl, who idolized Florence for her beauty, after the manner of school girls, 'your eyes are just the color of the water off Coney Beach, where I saw it last summer.'

Miss Castleton laughed.

'They are like summer skies,' said Charley Childs.

'I swear that they are just like the binding of 'Owen Meredith'—in blue and gold,' said Dick Manchester.

'And what is your comparison, Mr. Atwood?' said Florence, looking archly at David.

His answer was involuntary. 'They are like the blue larkspur which used to grow in my mother's garden,' he said.

Florence Castleton blushed; it was the only time I had seen her blush. Looking up she suddenly met the eyes of her guardian, Mr. Gray, who was present. Rising quickly she went to the piano, and seating herself, played a light air.

That night a cry of fire awoke me. I lay unaffected for a moment until I suddenly perceived the odor of smoke. Rising quickly, I opened my door; the hall was filled with smoke, and there was great confusion in the house. The cry of 'Fire, fire!' arose.

I flung on a wrapper, drew on slippers, and commenced putting my most valuable papers into my writing-desk. While I was doing this there came a quick step on the stairs, and a voice crying the names of all who slept on the landing. I opened my door and saw for the first time that the doors of all the other chambers were open, and the occupants had fled. It was a servant,

"Oh, come down, for heaven's sake!" she cried. The back part of the house is afire from cellar to roof, inside!"

There were doors in the hall shutting all the back part of the house off from the front.

"Are all out?" I asked, flinging a coat around me, and taking up my precious writing-desk. "Miss Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. Blake, Miss Houston, and Miss Castleton?" said I, as we went through the smoky hall.

"Heaven have mercy!" cried the Irish girl, "but I don't think Miss Castleton is out!" I haven't seen her! Oh, what will I do!"

Just then a figure came leaping upstairs.

"Go down!" he cried to me, as he sprang past.

He flung open the door between the two halls. A volume of smoke poured out, and I retreated. It was David Atwood. I knew instinctively that he had gone for Florence Castleton, and that she would immediately be safe.

Down stairs the people were carrying out furniture, and the greatest confusion and consternation, mingled with much active energy, prevailed.

Mr. Gray caught the arm of Mrs. Hawley, as she fled down the stairs with a pile of valuable clothing.

"Miss Castleton, Mrs. Hawley—where is she?" he cried.

"I don't know! I don't know!" she exclaimed despairingly. "Some one went for her. I have not seen her—"

Mr. Gray interrupted her with an oath, and sprang to the stairs; but at that instant the figure of David Atwood emerged from the smoke on the stairs, with the senseless form of Florence Castleton in his arms. She had apparently fainted with fright, or been overwhelmed with smoke. She was half dressed; her beautiful hair swept over David's arm, her white, unconscious face was clasped to his breast.

They carried her into the air, and she soon revived, and was carried to the hotel where Mr. Gray resided.

The fire was finally extinguished, but the house was very much injured, and rendered untenantable until repaired. It was Spring and I went out of town; but that summer I received the following letter from Jeanette Manchester:

"MY DEAREST ESTHER: I've such news to tell you? Florence Castleton married that horrid, awkwark David Atwood, who is a fright, even if he does play beautifully on the violin. It seems that he saved her from the fire, and she went into a passion of gratitude, and he told her that he loved her; and that was a pretty state of affairs for that aristocratic Gray who is more than half in love with her himself, I believe. But they say that Florence said to him: 'Dear guardian, remember my mother,' and he gave right up and let her marry Atwood. I wasn't at the wedding, it took place at the Gray's country seat, and they say the bride wore blue larkspur in her hair. Horrid taste! and so forth.

J. MANCHESTER."

I smiled. I was very glad.

The Editor and the Shoemaker.

One day an editor, hard at work trying to devise a plan to make delinquent subscribers pay their dues, was called upon by a shoemaker who dropped in to give the editor some valuable hints on running a newspaper. The editor, overjoyed at the opportunity, gave the man his best canebottom chair, handed him a fresh cigar and listened attentively. Quoth the shoemaker, as he lit the weed: 'Your paper needs a hundred improved features. You don't grasp the topics of the day by the right handle; you don't set the locals in the right kind of type; even the paper itself is poorly manufactured, not thick enough and of too chalky a white; you don't run enough matter, and what you do run ain't of the right sort; your ideas about protective tariff are infernally foolish, and your stand on the Conkling matter was bad, bad. I tell you these things because I want to see you succeed I tell you as a friend. I don't take your paper myself, but I see it once in a while, and as a paper is a public affair I suppose I have as good a right to criticize as anybody. If a man wants to give me advice I let him. I'm glad to have him, in fact.'

'That's exactly it,' said the editor, kindly; I always had a dim idea of my shortcomings, but never had them so clearly and convincingly set forth as by you. It is impossible to express my gratitude for the trouble you have taken, not only to find out these facts, but to point them out also. Some people knowing all these things perhaps nearly as well as you, are mean enough to keep them to themselves. Your suggestions come in a most appropriate time; I have wanted somebody to lean on, as it were, for some weeks. Keep your eye on the paper, and when you see a weak spot, come up.'

The shoemaker left, happy to know that his suggestions had been received with such a Christian spirit. Next day, just as he was finishing a boot, the editor came in, and picking up the mate, remarked:

'I want to tell you how that boot strikes me. In the first place the leather is poor; the stitches in the sole are too wide apart, and the uppers too near the edge. Those uppers will go to pieces in two weeks. It's all wrong, my friend, putting poor leather in the heels and smoothing it over with grease and lamp black. Everybody complains of your boots; they don't last; the legs are too short; the toes too narrow and the instep too high.

How you can have the gall to charge twelve dollars for such boots beats me. Now, I tell you this as a friend, because I like to see you succeed. Of course I don't know any more about shoemaking than you do about a newspaper, but still I take an interest in you because you are so well disposed to me. In fact—'

Here the exasperated cobbler grabbed a lapstone, and the editor gained the street followed by old knives, pincers, hammers and awls, sent after him by the wrathful cobbler, who, on regaining his seat, swore by the nine gods that no impertinent, lopeared idiot should ever come round trying to teach him his trade.

Arithmetical: If a dime with a hole in it is worth five cents, a dime with two holes in it ought to be worth ten cents.

M. Delon, of Paris, produces miniature balloons by means of ordinary gas conducted through a caoutchouc tube and clay pipe to glycerine soda solution. A small disk of thin paper, with fine wire from its center to a little paper car with aeronaut figures, is connected to the bubble when it begins to swell, the disk being attached by capillarity to the part where the drop forms. The detached bubble rises with its car.

A humorous bray: Said the lecturer: "The roads up these mountains are too steep and rocky for even a donkey to climb; therefore I did not attempt the ascent.

Bayard Taylor improved: A gamecock ought to be good eating. Does not the poet say "the bravest are the tenderest?"

The mill hands of Johnstown are worked extra hours at extra pay, which they can stand.

The Clergyman.

The clergyman, children, is probably the most curious specimen in our collection. His whole business consists in an endeavor to make men good, not thinking apparently, that if all were good he would have to go out of business.

The clergyman has other duties, such, for instance, as engineering fairs, making oyster stews and lemonade, and curing love sick people by joining them in marriage.

A clergyman is also expected to make the rounds of his parish weekly. This is not a very onerous task. It does not take all of his time. He has a few hours each week for sermon writing and sleep.

As the flock sleep while the clergyman is preparing his sermon, they think it no more than fair that they should sleep while he is reading it.

It must be said, however, to the credit of the ladies that they seldom go to sleep in church. They generally keep their eyes open during the services. New bonnets are worn to church.

The clergyman is paid for praying for people who would never think of praying for themselves. They know how much praying for they need, probably, and shrink from undertaking the task.

The clergyman is supposed to know everything, and yet everybody in the congregation thinks he knows more than the clergyman.

If the clergyman sticks to religion pure and simple, the congregation complains that he gives them nothing new; if he touches upon living questions, they accuse him of preaching politics.

If the clergyman does not visit his parishoners every day or two, they say he is a very poor pastor; if he makes his visits regularly, they soon discover that he is a very poor preacher.

If he extemporizes they complain that his discourse is rambling; if he preaches from notes, they say any fool can do that.

If a clergyman says but little at a funeral he is called cold and unsympathetic; if he says much he is accused of gushing.

The clergyman is the last person many a man would help support, and he is the last man many ask a favor of. He is not called in till the funeral is appointed.

A man who never helped the clergyman while alive cannot be expected to give him anything when dead.

If a clergyman does not keep abreast of the literature of the day the congregation say he is behind the time; if he gives them an epitome of the best thoughts of the best writes, they accuse him of plagarism and stealing.

If a clergyman preaches short sermons, he is accused of laziness; if he preaches long sermons, the people vote him tedious.

If he dresses like other people, his appearance is said to be unministerial; if he dresses in sombre black or dons a white choker, he is charged with affectation.

If he busies himself at the fair and social, it is said that he had better put more time in his sermons; if he gives his whole time to his sermons, he is said to be a poor worker.

The clergyman, it is said, lives on the ignorance of mankind. If this be true, he should have the best of living; but a good living is a difficult thing for a clergyman to get.

When you grow up, children, if you would be rich, you should all be clergymen; but it would be better to try something else first.

The Michigan Sufferers.

An official statement from Michigan shows that the various relief committees there have received $607,609.16, in cash, and supplies estimated to be worth $397,940 79, making a total of $1,005,631.95. A noble response for the country to make to the brief story of the distress by fire of three or four counties in distant Michigan. It is like that which was given to the pepole of the South when yellow fever was among them. The largest amount of money has been given through the Detroit committee, but more food and clothing was sent to the Port Huron people. The latter now announce that they have supplies enough and deem it best to help sufferers by giving them small sums of money. This will do something to start business again in the region. Many of the people who were burned out and fled from their homes are now returning and so far as the committee can ascertain are setting to work with a will to get on their feet again. The Port Huron committee has 2,053 families, 9,591 persons, more or less wholly on its charge, and it states that if $100 more could be given, by the country, to each of these families they could bridge their way over to the next harvest.

Bishop Simpson told the British ministers at the Methodist Conference, that there was no falling off in the observance of Sunday in this country.

An Awkward Faint.

Some women never can faint in in the proper manner nor at the right time. And if a woman cannot bring about this happy combination of time and manner and swoon, she had better get along without swooning. Now, here about two weeks ago, one Sabbath evening, at Bradford, Pa., the best behaved and most thoroughly moral town in the oil country, a city not given to fainting or other unseemly displays, during religious services, the Methodist Episcopal conference was in session, and its ministers were conducting service. Just after the ordination of deacons, a woman in the gallery fainted. Now, while the ordination of deacons is a most holy, solemn and deeply impressive ceremony, it is not wildly thrilling and exciting, like the initiation scenes in the Sons of Malta, and it is nothing to faint over. But this woman fainted, and a beautiful faint she made of it. It seems that she was sitting in the front seat in the gallery and slid straight forward on to the floor, thrusting her unconscious l—feet right through the gallery rail. They must have been a startling pair of feet to view, for the moment they were observed by the congregation, the panic-stricken worshipers raised the cry that the gallery was giving way, evidently mistaking the swaying feet for displaced columns or bracket braces. In the most worldly manner the congregation made a rush for the doors, and in the panic the saints trod the sinners under foot, and the sinners walked along on the backs of the saints, according to the respective size of saint and sinner, all being animated by the desire to get out from under the threatening shadow of those overhanging feet. In the midst of the confusion and terror, one of those unconfined lunatics whose mission is to say and do the most idiotic things under the guise of sanity, sprung through a window and shouted fire, and unfortunately escaped alive. That brought the fire department and a miscellaneous crowd of a few thousand men and boys swarming around the church, and although Chaplain McCabe began singing a hymn at the top of his rather penetrating voice, the panic could not be stayed and the people got out, but there wasn't a fall bonnet in the congregation fit to look at.

And how badly this woman must have felt, when she realized how great a ruin she had brought by fainting in that ridiculous manner, sticking through the gallery rail, like a saw buck hanging on a picket fence. And how the women with ruined hats will glare at her, especially those women who can't afford to buy new ones. A woman who is given to fainting ought always to pick out a suitable place before she lets go; and no woman whose feet are sufficiently startling in their development to throw a congregation of worshipers into a panic, has any right to faint at all.

The Wealthiest Chinaman in New York.

Tom Lee is a short, slender man of modest manner, and of an extremely retiring disposition. He wears a stiff Derby hat, into the crown of which he pokes his queue. This causes the hair on the back of his head to stand out like the quills of an angry porcupine or the hair on a cat's back rubbed the wrong way. He has a tiny black mustache and a sparse growth of wiry black hair on his chin. He wears a diamond pin in an old fashioned scarf and an eight-ounce gold watch-chain dangles from the third button of his waistcoat.

He is well to do; owns three tea farms in China, and is worth a few thousand, perhaps. He is a very influential man among Chinamen. He is a Christian, a citizen, a deputy sheriff, and is married to a girl who was born down town somewhere in that neighborhood. She has borne him a lovely little daughter of whom Tom Lee is justly very proud. He talks pigeon English, but he dresses as you and I do, except that he wears his queue. Very many among the 3,000 Chinese in New York retain their pig-tails, not because they cannot go back to China without them, or because of any heathen notion about them, but because a good many Chinamen who were cigarette or cigar-makers in China have come here from Cuba without their queues. They were rid of those appendages in Cuba prisons, where they were sent for wrong-doing, and it is considered best by respectable Chinamen not to cut off the queue, so as to obviate the necessity of explaining where and how it disappeared.

The Woman Suffrage Movement.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 7.—In the Lower House of the Washington Territory Legislature, the bill giving the right of suffrage to women, passed by a vote of thirteen to eleven. A similar bill was defeated in the Upper House on the 26th ultimo, by a vote of seven to five; but it will come up in another shape, and, it is believed, will pass.

Gems of Thought.

Cynicism is old at twenty.

Neatness and order are commendable.

A talent is perfected in solitude; a character in the streams of the world.

Bad men hate sin through fear of punishment. Good men hate sin through very love of virtue.

A cheerful temper, joined with innocence, will make beauty attractive, knowledge delightful and wit good-natured.

The best way to apologize is to do such a kindness to the offended one that he will forget that you ever attempted to injure him.

The first ingredient in good conversation is truth, the next good sense, the third good humor and the fourth wit.

The plaintive wailing of the minor mingles itself with every earthly melody; and it is only by-and-by that the veil shall be lifted, and the full chords of harmony peal on our ear unmarred by that undertone of pain.

When one thoughtfully considers the part which love has in the destiny and character of women, the issues that come out of it for her weal or misery, her ruin or perfection, nothing is more pathetic and death itself is not more solemn.

Silk first came from China, and the Chinese still have many important secrets connected with it unknown to Europeans. In a good year they send as much as $25,000,000 worth of raw silk to England alone. The 'hanks,' or books as they are called, arrive with caps made of a single cocoon. This is done by a process unknown in Europe.

Seeing Venus.

Last night the curbstone astronomer was standing by his instrument waiting for a customer. Presently two miners came along and paused to take a look at the machine.

"What in the thunder's that?" asked one of the miners.

"It is a telescope," said the student of the stars. "You see Venus for ten cents."

"Consider me in," said the miner and he put up ten cents and turned the tube on a constellation of the fourth ascension.

"Don't think much of it," he said after a look, and then turned the instrument down until it was focussed on a private residence some nine blocks away. Here the miner paused, pressed his eye close to the instrument and became as still as a mouse.

'Ain't you too low?" asked the planet sharp.

'I allers was low sighted,' responded the man of the pick.

'You can't look all night; other customers waiting.

The miner surveyed the crowd standing about him, and handing the showman a dollar, asked him to tell him when he had used up the money. He lowered his eye to the telescope once more and was again engrossed in his observations. Suddenly he rose up with a sigh, and remarked to his companion:

'Billy, she pulled the curtain down. The handsomest woman I ever saw in all my life. She let down her hair, took off her collar, and then, just as I gave that coon a dollar, she lowered the curtain and shut the blinds. I think I ought to have about ninety cents change. That old brass tube, though, is about 200-hoss power. It was like being right under the window with a step-ladder. I'm going to buy one of those machines the first time I make a raise.'—Nevada Exchange.

Shipping Sin Into Iowa by the Car Load.

When Whitlaw Ried gets home from his long wedding trip he should give his immediate attention to his boys in Iowa—and by "his boys" let us hasten to explain we mean his waifs from New York city who were gathered up by the great and philantrophic editor of the Tribune and sent to homes secured for them on Iowa farms. The country read a full account of the consummation of this scheme of practical charity in the telegrams of the Associated Press at the time, and have heard nothing in the months that have since passed to disturb the serene belief that these boys, happily saved from the vice and sins of their former associations in the slums of New York, would easily adapt themselves to the simplicity and sobriety of rustic life and become in time useful and respected grangers. The information now comes, however, that several of the boys have been varying the monotony of country life by wrecking a raidroad train near Mt. Auburn, Iowa. Having been sent there to study Western institutions and habits of life, their young minds seem to have been most vividly impressed with the illustrious lives and characters of the Younger and James boys, and they resolved, like them, to achieve fame and plunder by wrecking and robbing a railroad train. This is an unfortunate ending to a charity based upon good intentions, if not upon sound judgment; and to add to the disagreeable features of the matter, some of the Iowa papers, which a few years since were filled with the fame and praise of the far-seeing philanthropist, now talk savagely of the men who have been "shipping sin into Iowa by the car load," and are giving loud notice to the returning bridegroom that their State can no longer be used as "the dumping ground for juvenile depravity."

Farm and Iron Ore Mine
AT
ORPHANS COURT SALE

WILL be exposed at public sale on the premises, by order of the Orphans' Court of Centre county, Pa., on Wednesday, Nov. 16th, 1881,

All that messuage or tract of land known as the

JAS. A. McCALMONT FARM

Located in Marion township, Centre county, Pa., about a mile west of Jacksonville and eight miles east of Bellefonte, a first class Nittany Valley Farm, bounded by lands of W. W. Beck, Joseph Long, heirs of John Beatty, and heirs of Thomas Huston, deceased, containing about 193 acres, net measure. 150 acres are cleared and in a high state of cultivation, and the balance of the land is covered with thriving timber.

A good Mansion House, two tenement houses, frame barn, with other outbuildings; wells and cisterns convenient.

This farm contains the celebrated Iron Ore Bank known as the McCalmont Ore, which is of the best quality, analyzing 56 per cent. carbonate of iron, and extensive in quantity, in addition to which there are indications of ore of same quality in the fields adjoining, which can be washed from the earth in large quantities. Water 90 feet below the surface.

This farm is located in a good neighborhood, convenient to churches, schools, mills, and within three miles of Howard station on the Bald Eagle Valley Railroad, to which the road descends all the way.

Persons wishing to view this property before the day of sale are invited to call on James S. and Robert McCalmont, who reside on the premises.

Sale at 1 o'clock P. M. of said day.

TERMS.—One-third of purchase money to be paid on confirmation of sale, one-third in one year, the balance in two years thereafter; the two latter payments to be secured by bonds and mortgage on the premises, with interest.

Valuable Farm for Sale.

THE EXECUTORS OF THE ESTATE OF FELIX DALE, deceased, offer at private sale a Farm situate at seven miles southwest from Bellefonte, containing 162 Acres, more or less, of the very best limestone land, about 30 acres of which remain covered with good timber, mostly of white oak.

Houserville, in College Twp,

The improvements are a two-story Dwelling House, roomy and commodious with cellar and vault, basement kitchen and pantry: well and cistern near the door; oven-house, smoke-house and tool-house; a large Bank Barn, with horse-power shed attached; carriage house, corn crib, and other necessary buildings.

Besides an Orchard of choice apples, there are cherries, peaches, grapes, and other fruits in their season.

Spring Creek runs through the place.

IRON ORE.

From surface indications and tests made, it is believed that a valuable deposit of the best iron ore underlies the western part of the farm, needing only to be developed to enrich the owner.

Pleasantly located, with a soil of great fertility, and possessing the advantages of town and country in its proximity to churches, schools, mills, stores and markets, this property will commend itself to any one who is either looking for a desirable and comfortable home or wanting to make a good investment of capital.

HOUSE AND LOT.

An adjoining half-acre lot with a house thereon, will be sold either with the farm, or separately, to suit purchasers.

Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose that he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, indigestion, etc. A moisture like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, particularly at night, after getting warm in bed, is a very common attendant. Internal, External and Itching Piles yield at once on the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure where all other remedies have failed. Do not delay until the drain upon the system produces permanent disability, but try it and be cured. Price, 50 cents. Ask your druggist for it, and when you cannot obtain it of him, we will send it, prepaid, on receipt of price. Address, The Dr. Bosanko Medicine Co., Piqua Ohio. Sold by F. Potts Green. 21-17t

If you cannot read this print distinctly by lamp or gaslight in the evening at a distance of 10 inches, your eyes are failing, no matter what your age, and your eyes need help. Your sight can be improved and preserved if properly corrected. It is a wrong idea that spectacles should be dispensed with as long as possible. If they assist the vision use them. There is no danger of seeing too well, so long as the print is not magnified; it should look natural size but plain.

It is known to all who have been compelled to resort to the use of Spectacles (notwithstanding they may be perfectly fitted to correct the optical defects), that for some cause, not until recently well defined, their use was attended with fatiguing, smarting, and otherwise disagreeable sensations. This is a universal fact of experience, and has been supposed to be entirely beyond remedy. This disagreeable sensation and disturbance of the eye is produced chiefly, perhaps we ought to say entirely, from the fact that ordinary lenses increase the sensation of heat (to which the eye, more than any other organ or part of the body, is sensitive), as also the actinic or chemical properties of the rays of light.

It is well known that these peculiarities of light are identified with certain colors of each ray; and the point of importance, or without using technicalities, is to construct lenses so that these properties of light shall be neutralized; this can be done by introducing a neutralizing tint into their manufacture, the difficulty of which, however, consists in the selection of a color which shall have this effect, and, at the same time, shall not otherwise impair the lenses for purposes of vision. The

Arundel Tinted Lens

Is designed to effect this purpose. The peculiarity of its manufacture consists in the introduction into the glass of a slight Violet Color, in such manner that the high and low numbers of the lens prepared from this glass, although varying in thickness, are of the same delicate tint and of sufficient power to neutralize the heating and actinic power of the rays of light. Read the following:

[From R. S. Mershon, Esq., Zanesville, Ohio.]

"I have put the Arundels through the following tests:—I placed an eight-inch Arundel, and an eight-inch white lens side by side, sharply focused in the strong sunlight, with their foci directed on the bulbs of two thermometers, and the difference was four (4°) degrees in temperture in favor of the ARUNDEL. Again, I placed the same lenses side by side on a piece of sensitised photographic paper, and the white glass discolored the surface quicker than the ARUNDEL. These two tests prove these two points, viz: that the ARUNDEL intercepts the solar heat-rays and the chemical rays also."

And the following from a Centre county man whose letter can be seen at my store:

* * * "I am very much pleased with the glasses. They have been more beneficial to my eyes than all the medicine I ever put in them."

If you experience any unpleasantness in reading or can't see distinctly, come in and have your eyes tested. I think I have something good for you.

ELY'S CREAM BALM

Having gained an enviable local reputation, displacing all other preparations in the vicinity of discovery, is, on its merits alone, recognized as a wonderful remedy wherever known. A fair trial will convince the most skeptical of its curative powers. It effectually cleanses the nasal passages of Catarrhal virus, causing healthy secretions, allays inflammation and irritation, protects the membranal linings of the head from additional colds, completely heals the sores and restores the senses of taste and smell. Beneficial results are realized after a few applications. A thorough treatment as directed will cure Catarrh. As a household remedy for cold in the head it is unequaled. The Balm is easy to use and agreeable. Sold by druggists at 50 cents. On receipt of 50 cents will mail a package. Send for circular with full information.

The Positive Cure
For all Female Complaints.

This preparation, as its name signifies, consists of Vegetable Properties that are harmless to the most delicate invalid. Upon one trial the merits of this Compound will be recognized, as relief is immediate; and when its use is continued, in ninety-nine cases in a hundred, a permanent cure is effected, as thousands will testify. On account of its proven merits, it is to-day recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country.

It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, Irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. It will dissolve and expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development. The tendency to cancerous humors there is checked very speedily by its use.

In fact it has proved to be the greatest and best remedy that has ever been discovered. It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach.

It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

For Kidney Complaints of either sex this compound is unsurpassed.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is prepared at 233 and 235 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Price $1.00. Six bottles for $5.00. Sent by mail in the form of pills, also in the form of Lozenges, on receipt of price, $1.00, per box, for either. Mrs. PINKHAM freely answers all letters of inquiry. Send for pamphlet. THE LATEST NEWS.

Virginia.

RICHMOND, Nov. 12.—Returns from eighty counties and cities, covering over two-thirds of the State, make Cameron's (Readjuster) majority so far about 1,500. The thirty-two counties yet to hear from will considerably increase these figures, but from estimates made from careful calculations, his total majority in the State will not reach 10,000 and may fall much lower. The Readjusters, however, still claim Cameron's majority will not be less than 22,000. The Legislature, according to the best estimates that can be now made, stands; House—Readjusters 57, Democrats 43; Senate—Readjusterd 22, Democrats 18. Majority for Readjusters on joint ballot 19.

The Dispatch, Democrat, concedes Cameron's election by 5,000 to 6,000 majority and summarizes the legislative result as follows; Senate—Democrats 17, Readjusters 22; House—Democrats 42, Readjusters 55; doubtful 3. This would give the Readjusters nineteen majority on joint ballot without counting the three doubtful ones. There are two colored members in the Senate and eleven in the House.

New York.

ALBANY, Nov. 12.—The Evening Journal claims the election of the State ticket, with the exception of Husted for Treasurer, by from 10,000 to 12,000 majority. It gives the Senate to the Democrats by two majority and the Assembly by two or three majority.

At the headquariers of the Republican State Committee it is stated this morning that the latest dispatches add to the Rupblican majority, and it is expected it will amount to 12,000.

Later returns from the State received by the Evening Journal put Carr's majority at 10,000. The Journal says if these figures stand all his associates on the Republican ticket, except Husted, are certainly elected. The Journal figures the Senate 17 Democrats and 15 Republicans; Assembly, 67 Democrats and 61 Republicans.

Challenge to Trot for $10,000.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—E. S. Stokes authorizes the Turf Field and Farm to say for him: 'I will match Mr. Mackay's California bred Sweethear against Mr. Raymond's Kentucky bred Phil Thompson, mile heats, three and five, for $10,000 a side, the race to be trotted some time in July, at Chicago or New York; the track to be chosen which will offer the best terms as to gate money. The expense of bringing Sweetheart from San Francisco will be considerable, and therefore I will put up a forfeit of $3,000 against $5,000 and an additional $5,000 against $5,000 five days before the time fixed for the race. Or if Raymond will trot in California, I will put up a forfeit of $5,000 against his $3,000. I will either give or take $2,000 for expenses.'

Nebraska.

OMAHA, Nov. 11.—Returns come in very slowly. A light vote generally was polled for the State ticket, composed of one Judge of the Supreme Court and two University Regents. No special interest was attached to that part of the ticket, as the State is largely Republican, and the Republican candidates were absolutely certain to be elected by a large majority. Considerable interest was generally manifested over county officers. Douglas county elected a straight Republican ticket by majorities ranging from two hundred to fifteen hundred. This is the first time a straight ticket has been elected in this county for several years. Hall county went Republican for the first time in its history.

Wisconsin.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 11.—One hundred and ninety-one towns and cities, including Milwaukee, and embracing two fifths of the State, with the interior Republican precincts to hear from, give a net Democratic gain of 8,298. The Republican vote on the basis of the last Gubernatorial election to overcome is 25,500. The Democratic State Central Committee claim a good show to carry the State and claim the State Treasurer. The Republican State Central Committee are positive of the election of the entire State ticket by from 2,000 to 5,000. Private advices from prominent Republicans in the interior seem to assure the success of the Republican ticket. Returns come in slowly. The entire vote is not over 60 per cent. of the usual vote, and the flooded condition of a large portion of the central and northern part of the State is assigned as a reason. The Prohibitionists have drawn at least twelve or fifteen thousand from the Republican vote.

About one-half the State heard from gives a net Democratic gain of about 8,500. The Republican majority to overcome on the basis of figures made is 26,000, so that the Democratic rates of gain would have to be more than double on the balance of the State to defeat the Republican ticket. To-night the Republicans are very confident, and Secretary Payne, of the Republican State Central Committee, claims the State by 7,500. The Democrats claim the election of Falk, for Treasurer.

Further returns insure the election of the Republican State ticket and the plurality is estimated at not less than 6,000.

Maryland.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 11.—Returns from counties up to 2:30 p. m. are still incomplete, but are sufficient to base an estimate of the general result. The Republicans gained unexpected victories in several Democratic counties, including Senators in Harford, where Allen, Republican, is elected over Stump, who was President of the last Senate. They also gained four Senators. The next Senate stands according to the present estimates 16 Democrats and 10 Republicans. In the last Senate there were 7 Republicans and 16 Democrats. Based on the same estimates the House stands 59 Democrats and 32 Republicans. The Republicans also elected Frederick Stone, Republican, for Chief Judge in the Seventh Judicial District; also, John D. Brooke, Republican, Associate Judge for the same district. In Howard county, the Home of U. S. Senator A. P. Gorman, the regular Democratic ticket is said to be elected by 250 majority. Warfield, Democrat, for Senator has a majority of 543 over Orson Adams, Republican.

Virginia.

RICHMOND, Nov. 11.—The returns this morning are very favorable for the readjusters. It is conceded that Cameron, Readjuster candidate, is elected by about ten thousand majority. The contest over the Legislature is exceedingly close. The Funders claim a net gain of thirteen members. They require fifteen to obtain a majority on joint ballots.

B. P. OWEN, JR., Whig.

RICHMOND, Nov. 11.—The Democrats have given up all hopes of success. The Readjusters' victory is a complete one. The Whig will today editorially say: 'We have not yet received sufficient returns to give the exact, or even proximate, figures of our majorities, but we know enough to be quite positive that Colonel Cameron and our whole State ticket are elected by a majority of not less than 12,000, and that we have carried both branches of the General Assembly by a joint majority exceeding that of the Legislature of 1879-80. Indeed, the returns as far as received fully justify claiming a majority of 20,000 for our State ticket, but out of abundant caution we decline to claim everything we might reasonably do.

B. P. OWEN, JR.

Railroad Freight Smash-up.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 12.—Last night about 9 o'clock a freight train on the C., I., St. L. & C. R. R. became detached about eight miles north of the city, and by some means the rear part of the train collided with the front part, starting the engine and two cars without engineer or fireman at a rapid rate for the city. When near the Union Depot it collided with an engine on the Indianapolis and Vincennes Railroad, demolishing both engines and two cars. The rear part of the freight train, which was loaded with cattle, was also wrecked and a number of cattle killed. The loss is estimated at $25,000. No one was injured.

Strike in Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 12.—The cigarmaker's strike, which has been in progress here some days, has not yet been compromised, but on the contrary is becoming more bitter. The firms interested have perfected arrangement with four hundred cigarmakers in San Francisco (not Chinese, as was reported) and have contracted with the railroads to bring them hither at once.

Pennsylvania's Vote.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—Official returns from thirty-eight of the sixty-seven counties of the State, with estimated returns from the remainder, give Baily, Republican for State Treasurer, a plurality of 5,954 over Noble, Democrat.

Ball and Target.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—It is the purpose of the National Rifle Association to send a representative team, composed of the National Guard, to Wimbledon next July. A committee has been appointed to consider the subject, and has issued a circular addressed to the leading National guardsmen throughout the country asking for their views and advice. The team is to consist of twelve men and two reserve men, and all must be regular members of the National Guard of the State which they represent. The selection is, as far as possible, to be made thus: Two from the Southern States, two from the Western States, three from the Eastern States and five from the Middle States. The men are to be chosen by competition in their several States. They are to be men who can make more than 80 per cent. at 200, 500 and 600 yards, and who can be trusted to represent credibly their States under all circumstances. It is intended that the team shall leave New York for England in the latter part of June, to be in time for the Wembledon meeting, which begins in the second week in July. The members of the team will assemble at Creedmore about ten days before the time of sailing, and will be provided with quarters at the club house. The National Rifle Associotion will also provide for them while they remain in New York. The other expenses of the men the States which they represent are to be asked to pay. The rifle used must be within the rules of the Britsh National Rifle Association, that is, without wind guage, and one which is in the hands of troops. The team is to select its own cap ain, and the members are to wear the uniform of the corps they represent. The committee having the matter in charge is composed of G. W. Wingate, G. D Scott, J. G. Story, W. H. Murphy and M. B. Fary.

The Secretary of War's Report.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Nov. 14.—It is understood that the Secretary of War, in his forthcoming annual report, will urge the speedy completion of the new building for the War Department. The necessities of the Government service require its early completion. The bureaus of the Department are now widely scattered, and many of the buildings now occupied are of doubtful security, and yet contain records of immense value the destruction of which would work great injury to the Government. He will also call attention to the necessity for further legislation to make available the appropriation for a new building for the Pension Office, which appropriation by the omission of a single word in the act of last year was rendered unavailable during the year.

New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Secretary Vrooman, of the Republican State Central Committee, says: From the best estimate we can make the Republicans carried the State by at least 5 000. The Legislature will be very close. We estimate the Senate will be a tie, 16 Republicans and 16 Democrats, and Assembly 68 Republicans and 60 Democrats.

The World's legislative table makes the State Senate—Democrats, 17; Republicans, 17; Assembly, Democrats, 67; Republicans, 61, and claims the election of State officers by majorities ranging from 5,000 on Purcell to over 20,000 on Maxwell for State Treasurer.

The Tribune estimates Carr's majority at 8,700. The Senate, it thinks, will stand 17 Democrats to 15 Republicans, and the Assembly 66 Democrats to 62 Republicans.

Patti in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Steinway Hall was fairly filled to-night by an exceedingly fashionable audience to greet Adelina Patti on her return to this country. Many musicial celebrities were present, including Campanini and others of the opera. On coming on the stage Patti received the most enthusiastic greetiny, which was more heartliy repeated as she finished the selection from "Traviata," "Ah Forse e Lui." She gave as an encore "Coming Through the Rye." Her singing of "Home sweet Home," was one of the principal triumphs of the evening, the fair singer being called out by plaudits four times. Patti also sang selections from "Dinorah" and from "Lombardi" and was abliged to give encores to each. The audience grew more and more enthusiastic to the close.

Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.—There has been nothing received at the political headquarters this morning to alter materially the result already announced. The Republican Committee have some additional advices from which they place Baily's majority at 7,000, but the Democratic campaign managers are not satisfied that an adverse result has been achieved.

Revised estimates received from all but four of the counties in the State give Baily, Republican, for State Treasurer, 6,285 plurality.

The Star Route Arguments.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The argument of the motion to quash the information in the Star route cases closed to-day with the speech of Colonel Totten. Judge Cox announced that he would probably bring in his decision to-morrow. In view of this it is presumed by the lawyers that the Court has not only made up its mind, but that it has already prepared the opinion.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS

The War Governor.

The Philadelphia Press of Friday contains a highly interesting and complimentary sketch of Hon. A. G. Curtin, the War Governor of Pennsylvania, form the pen of Frank A. Burr. It alludes to the dramatic period in which Governor Curtin, son of Roland Curtin, was born. The date was April 22, 1817. It speaks of his father and mother and of the fine educational advantages enjoyed by young Andrew. He studied with William W. Potter, Esq., and graduated in his profession from the law department of Dickinson College.

His brilliant powers as a speaker, combining learning, wit and oratory, are given the special prominence they merit. In 1848 he was Presidential-elector, and again filled the same position in 1852. He declined the Gubernatorial nomination in 1854 and gave his whole power and influence to the support of his personal friend, Mr. Pollock. He was chosen by this gentleman as Secretary of State, and in this position did much for the public school system—that department being then under his control. The article proceeds to describe his future public career. How he united with the Republican party at its birth and was elected Governor of Pennsylvania; how his influence made our first martyr President, Abraham Lincoln, the choice of Pennsylvania. This part of the sketch, especially that of his own canvass for Governor, reads like a romance. Our readers will find an extract of it in another column. His mission to Russia is to alluded and the article closes with frequent allusions to the peculiar portion now occupied by the Governor as a representative in congress of the Democracy—a party for which he can feel no true affection.

It would afford us much pleasure to republish the article in full if the limits of our columns did not forbid. Suffice it to say, that the Governor's glory is imperishble and it is an honor to have so distinguished a citizen in our midst.

What a Bellefonte Surgeon Did.

We have received the following communication from Mr. John Smith, of Spring township, testifying to the skill of Bellefonte's young physician and surgeon, Dr. Hoy:

SPRING TOWNSHIP, Nov. 8, 1881.

EDITOR DAILY NEWS:

I wish to state for the benefit of all interested that the treatment which I received from Dr. Hoy for my injured limb has been entirely satisfactory. I was informed upon authority that such complicated cases of fracture of bone and ancle dislocation rarely gave a good result as to motion of ancle joint. In this case the motion is all that I could wish for, and I attribute it to the care which I received in its treatment. The result being so gratifying, I take pleasure in making this statement. Respectfully,

JOHN SMITH.

Notice to the Ladies.

Several ladies are canvassing the town soliciting rags to manufacture a rag carpet for the young men's reading room of the Y. M. C. A. They request all who feel like assisting in this work to make balls of carpet rags and send them to the boys' reading room any evening this week, or on Monday and Tuesday evening of next week. We hope the request will meet with a generous and general response.

—Don't talk about a famine. Cease complaining about high prices. Walk straight to Sechler's grocery and have all these false ideas effectually dissipated. Look at the flour, sugar and meat; the eggs, butter and syrups which fill his two large store rooms to their utmost capacity. This is a sight to feast the eyes, please the olfactories and for a small amount of money it will also satisfy the palate and stomach. Do your next marketing at Sechler's grocery.

—The reason for the non-appearance of the DAILY NEWS Wednesday morning was because a very large proportion of the reading matter which it contained fell into "pi" just as the last form was being lifted on the press about 5 o'clock a. m. As pie is not a wholesome article of diet for the morning meal we thought it best not to send it to our readers in that condition.

—J. A. Beeber, Esq., receiver for the Lycoming Insurance Company, has rendered his report. It shows that the gross liabilities of the Lycoming Insurance Company are $362,042.31 and the assets $185,570.76. The premium notes amount to $875,018.78. Cash in the hands of the treasurer, $12,382.69. The deficit is $176,472.05, which will necessitate an assessment of 22 per cent.

One Thousand Dollars

About the 26th of September last, Mr. Gable, of the firm of Gable & Allen, this city, found a pocket-book containing papers and money amounting to one thousand dollars or thereabouts. Advertisement of the finding appeared in this paper twice, but no owner has yet appeared to claim the lost property. The impression prevails that the gentleman who lost it is a Bellefonte man. Bellefonte and other papers are requested to give attention to this matter.

The above "text" is found in the columns of the Williamsport Gazette & Bulletin of Thursday last. If it is not an interesting text to every Bellefonter who has been in Williamsport during the last few weeks we mistake human nature entirely. Can it be that any Bellefonter has vistited that city and lost a thousand dollars in papers and cash without making it public? We notice the names of our citizens among the published lists who register at the hotels in that city almost daily, but we do not think that many of them are accustomed to come away leaving a thousand dollars lying on the streets for Mr. Gable or any other individual. But we know that there are several gentlemen here who are able to buy and sell Williamsport, and are forced to admit that such may be the case. Now, who is it that lost this large sum of money? Don't all speak at once, but let him who can establish his claim do so at once, reward the honesty of Mr. Gable, and return a happy man.

The Borough Council.

The time of council on Monday night was nearly all consumed with the consideration and passage of bills. Two applications of importance were received, one for a boardwalk from the Friends' meeting house to the borough line on the Lewistown pike, and also for two street lamps in the same vicinity. Another application was for a boardwalk on Ridge street between Howard and Lamb streets. These applications were referred to the Street Committee, so far as the petitions for boardwalks, are concerned. The Committee will doubtless, report affirmatively in regard to both. These walks are quite necessary and there is no reason why they should not be laid. Their completion would greatly convenience many worthy residents of both localities. They should have been put down before the rainy weather of fall began, but better late than never.

—The Second re-union of the old 53d Reg't, P. V., will be held at Milton, Northumberland county, Pa., on Tuesday, December, 13th 1881. It is expected that a large proportion of the surviving members of the regiment will be present. George C. Anderson of Latrobe, Westmoreland county, is president of the association. P. H. Schreyer of Milton, Vice President, John M. Caldwell, Milton, Treasurer, and A. B. Mann, of Cordersport, Sec'y. The Executive Committee consists of Geo. D. Pifer, 514 Market street, Philadelphia, Eli Chambers, Latrobe, John McLaughlin, Huntingdon, P. H. Schreyer, Milton, and A. B. Mann, Coudersport.

—Now the astronomers say that Venus is going to transit. About all the other planets have had a trial at transiting and Venus will try it on the evening of the 6th of December. Then, like other famous actresses, she will retire from the stage so far as transitting is concerned—not forever, but for 125 years, which is about the same so far as we are concerned. So you see the transit of Venus is an astronomical occurrence of some, note and the leading lights of that science are coming from Europe to this country to witness the operation. Venus has always been a brilliant and interesting creature and we doubt not her transit will be like all her previous movements—a grand success.

—An exchange expresses a beautiful but humorous thought as follows: "The large number of comets recently discovered is explained. Some mischievous little angels are catching the stars and tying tails to them." We believe that the editor who conceived that must have been eating some of Sechler's groceries, or at least some of the same kind. Sechler keeps splendid groceries. They are pure and wholesome, and make the consumer feel in excellent condition. We also heard a man say recently that it is the cheapest grocery in town, and we are fully inclined to believe it.

—Monte Ward, the champion base ball pitcher, is at present at his home in this place. In a few days he will start on an extended tour to the far West, going throught the Northern States and territories and returning through New Mexico, Louisiana, &c. He does not expect to return until the next base ball season, four months hence.

—Some cigars are not worth the match required to light them, but those kept by Harry Green are worth double the money they cost.

—Always do right and buy your groceries at Sechler's.

Pine Glen Gleanings.

A fair correspondent, thinking that a few items from Burnside township would be interesting to us, sends us the following, introducing her matter-of-fact news with a few poetical remarks. She says: Although the summer heat has lingered and we can hardly realize that the time for tempestuous storms and cold snows is so near, yet the falling of the leaves, the shortening days and the lengthening nights tell the story of what may soon be expected. The fall work is almost over. The apple butter is made and there are apples and cider enough in the cellar to last until spring. Apples were abundant in this section, but potatoes, cabbage, corn, &c., were a failure.

Mr. George R. Boak was out hunting some time ago, but has returned. I don't know what success he met with, but guess it was not brilliant.

There was a grand "hop" not long since at R. Mulhollan's. Our young people enjoyed "whirling around on their toes" very much.

Our schools are getting along finely, or at least the pupils think so. Perhaps it is because they have interesting young teachers.

Our Methodist friends are talking of building a church at this place. Those who are appointed to do the collecting had better exert themselves more than they have thus far or they wont succeed very well. But I wish them success, and hope that some of the friends in Bellefonte will assist, for a church is what they need here.

CINDERELLA.

—The funeral services over the remains of the late Robert Doak were held on Sunday afternoon. There were several circumstances connected with Mr. Doak's death and burial that rendered them peculiarly impressive. The deceased was not a member of Gregg Post, but he had been a soldier, and in consideration of this much of the expense necessarily entailed was borne by this organization from a fond provided expressly for that purpose by the festival and art gallery held under the auspices of the Post last winter. Before Mr. Doak's death his most earnest wish was to see his aged mother, and she was accordingly brought here at the expense of the Post. The deceased was a painter by trade and the four pall bearers were each soldiers and painters.

—The people of Altoona are again to have the privilege of listening to a delightful course of lectures and concerts during the winter. Among the chief attractions is Will Carleton, the farm ballad poet, who will deliver a humerous poem, the first entertainment of the kind ever attempted. Another star in the course is Lotta, who will sing in the opera of "Trovatore." Altoona enjoyed a similar course of entertainments last year. Cannot Bellefonte have a few more of these truly refined entertainments. Bellefonte has not so large a population as Altoona, but surely we are far ahead of that city in the wealth and culture of our people.

—The festival supper given by the M. E. congregation at Valentines' forge on Saturday passed off pleasantly. At the time we entered the building the tables were all thronged with people, among whom we noticed Mr. Amos Mullen and Mr. P. G. Meek. The oysters were prepared in all the appetizing ways known to the art and in profuse abundance. No pains were spared to make the occasion agreeable to all who should attend, and we hope the results were financially profitable.

—The meeting in the rooms of the Y. M. C. A., on Sunday afternoon introductory to the week of prayer, was well attended, and rendered quite interesting by the remarks of two strangers who were present.

—The axe works of C. K. Essington, of Milesburg, went into operation to their fullest capacity Monday, making quite a commotion in that quiet country town.

—The train missed connection at Lock Haven Monday afternoon, and consequently very few passengers arrived on the 5.35 mail from that place.

—A general meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Rooms every evening this week (except Wednesday) from 7:15 to 8 o'clock. Everybody welcome! Come!

—The stars winked as if Jack Frost might be around last night, so look out for him this morning.

—That cold wave which was predicted failed to arrive, at least with any severity.

—Have you tried Harry Green's cigars? They are first-class.

Governor Curtin and the Soldiers.

The wisdom of the selection of Governor Curtin by the Republicans was justfied from the day he assumed the position to which he was elected, in the intelligence with which he dealt with the grave questions forcing themselves upon him as the Executive of a great State, with the nation upon the threshold of a sectional war. He was wise, discreet, conservative and able in the discharge of his important and delicate duties, during the trying days when all were endeavoring to peaceably prevent rebellion. He was patriotic, firm, agressive and even stubbornly courageous when all efforts failed and the war came. It followed close upon his inauguration as the Chief Executive of the State, and when the first gun was fired, he sprang to the duty of raising men forthe General Government, with an energy and spirit unequaled by any other state executive. He encouraged enlistments in every possible way, and in an eloquent war speech just after the fall of Sumpter he kindled camp fires upon almost every hearth in Pennsylvania, and called more into service than was asked for by the General Government. In this speech he promised that Pennsylvania should permit none of its soldiers to be buried in other soil; that wives and children should be the wards of the State; that the widows of soldiers should be protected and their children cared for and educated at the expense of the Commonwealth.

"How has this promise of yours been kept?" said I to him, more than twenty years after it was made, and seventeen after the war was ended.

"Religiously," he answered. "Commissioners were placed in every corps of the army, and every Pennsylvania soldier found, wherever he went, the representative of his State, specially charged with the task of looking after his necessities. If he was sick in the hospital, if he was wounded in battle, if he was on the march or in camp, he found that his State had a watchful eye over his comfort. Pennsylvania was the first State to do this, and no Pennsylvania soldier ever fell in battle whose body was not sent home for burial, if his body had been identified and application made therefor.

"The State did care for the wives and children, has protected the widows and educated the orphans. Sixteen thousands soldiers' orphans have been educated in the different soldiers' orphan asylums throughout the State, provided by the gratitude of Pennsylvania for the valor and patriotism of her soldiers. A marvellous fact is that out of the nearly 16,000 who have been educated in these schools, only two have ever been accused of crime. In the history of the world, there has never been a nation that has provided for its soldiery with anything like the watchful generosity with which Pennsylvania has kept the promise I made as its executive at the beginning of the war."

ASHBURNHAM, Mass., Jan. 14, '80.
I have been very sick over two years. They all gave me up as past cure. I tried the most skillful physicians, but they did not reach the worst part. The lungs and heart would fill up every night and distress me, and my throat was very bad. I told my children I never should die in peace until I had tried Hop Bitters. I have taken two bottles. They have helped me very much indeed. I am now well. There was a lot of sick folks here who have seen how they helped me, and they used them and are cured, and feel as thankful as I do that there is so valuable a medicine made.
MRS. JULIA G. CUSHING.

DURING the past five years I have suffered from catarrh, and have used without relief remedies prescribed by various physicians. I was advised to try Ely's Cream Balm, and am using it with beneficial results, and feel confident I shall be completely cured of a disease that has seriously affected not only my nostrils but also my eyes and hearing. EDWARD T. TUTEN.

SUMMARY OF THE NEWS.

Pennsylvania's Vote.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 8.—The returns from Pennsylvania, so far as they have been received, indicate the election of General Baily for State Treasurer by a fair majority over Wolf and Noble. The vote was light, but the Republican majority will be six or seven thousand, and it is believed that it will be nearer the latter than the former figure. Wolf gets a plurality of six hundred in his own county of Union and 400 in Snyder. The vote of Philadelphia was much lighter than had been anticipated, being nearly 12,000 less than three years ago when Butler carried the State by about 68,000 plurality. Baily's plurality in this city is 12,053, which is a trifle less than the total vote cast for Wolf.

HARRISBURG, November 8.—From returns received it is very probable that Wolfe has polled about 700 votes. Baily's majority will be about 1,400. The Democrats were split in the Democratic and Independent ticket, many voting for Mr. Wolfe, who gave as their only reason that Noble was a Knownothing. The Wolf vote has not hurt the regular ticket. Simonton for additional Law Judge ran ahead of his ticket. Senator Cameron voted the straight ticket at the Fourth ward polls early this morning.

SCRANTON, Nov. 9.—Victory crowns the day's work in this county. Not only has the State a plurality, but the full Republican county ticket returns from twenty-seven districts and eight estimated gives Baily's vote at 1,300. The Republican county ticket will have at least two hundred majority.

TITUSVILLE, Nov. 9.—The vote for State Treasurer results as follows: Titusville—Bailey 409, Noble 365, Wolf 195. The Democrats have undoubtedly elected F. W. Ellsworth Sheriff of Crawford County.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 9.—Baily's plurality in Allegheny county will be between 5,000 and 6,000. Wolf's vote will reach fully 4,000. The entire Republican county ticket is elected.

Result in Pennsylvania.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 10.—The returns from Pennsylvania show that the Republican party comes out of a desperate struggle with treachery, falsehood and vilification with its lines unbroken, victorious over Wolfe, M'Clure and Democracy—the World, the Flesh and the Devil. The attempt to 'reform' the Republican party by putting the Democracy in power has ended in disaster and to the conspirators who have struggled to destroy the party they have long disgraced with their adherence; and the Democratic party emerges from the contest bedraggled with the slime of its late reinforcements. No such assault was ever made on any party, at any time, as the one the Republicans have just met and gloriously repulsed. And the result is not only a victory over all its enemies—and the traitors lurking in its camp—but it is a perfect annihilation of these piebald and incongruous elements. Baily has been elected. Wolfe has been pulverized. And Noble has been disgraced. That surely is enough for one day's work, and we heartily congratulate the glorious old Republican party of the Keystone State on the signal victory it has won, on the complete rout it has inflicted on its foes. That common sense which sees that an army of Brigadier Generals is worthless has given us this 'crowning mercy!'

Dauphin County.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 10.—The official returnes from this county are far better than the early reports warranted us in believing. Not only has our usual "off-year" majority been equalled, but it has been surpassed, and the official returns today show a larger majority than has ever been given except in a Presidential year. Baily has 1,863 plurality, and the county ticket is well up towards those figures. Mr. Simonton for Judge made a splendid run, receiving the highest majority cast in the county.

Harrisburg must also come in for unstinted praise. With serious disaffection on every side, the reliable Republicans of this city have rolled up 350 majority for the ticket, but 28 less than that polled for Garfield last year. Dauphin county and Harrisburg have been a prominent factor in proving that Pennsylvania is Republican all the time, and has the votes to overcome opposition from without and treason from within.

Maryland's Light Vote.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 10.—The election in this city on Tuesday was quite and the vote light, being over 1,000 less than that cast at the municipal election two weeks ago, when the total vote cast was 35,000, a little more than half the registered vote of the city. The only State officers voted for was Comptroller and members of the Legislature. A Sheriff of the city and City Surveyor were also elected. The vote for Keating (Dem.), for Comptroller, was 23,318, for Gorsuch (Rep.), 11,250. Keating's majority, 12,067. Democrats elected their candidates in the three legislative districts of the city comprising 18 members of the lower house house and also Senator for the Second District. For Sheriff, Hunter (Regular Democrat) received 23,790, West (Rep.), 11,834 and Seim (Ind. Dem.) 1,337. Hunter's majority over all, 10,619. Returns from counties are very meagre, but no doubt of Keating's election and Democrats having carried both Houses of the Legislature.

Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 10.—Returns are coming in very slowly, mostly from the smaller places. In all the larger places there has been much scratching, and in the counties the vote is light and everywhere a falling from last year, affecting the two parties nearly alike. In St. Paul General Johnston, Democrat, for Governor, ran ahead of the ticket, and Greenleaf Clark, defeated by Judge Van-Aubrey in the Republican Convention for Supreme Judge, is receiving a large vote. About half the ticket will be Republican and half Democratic. Hubbard, Republican, for Governor, runs ahead of the ticket in the First and Second Congressional districts and behind in the Third. The probability is that his gains and losses will offset each other, and that he and the whole Republican ticket will be elected by a majority somewhat reduced from last year. At Minneapolis the whole Republican ticket is probably elected.

Illinois.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—To-day's election has had only local significance, and even locally has not been considered important, as but few offices were to be filled, and the chief one, Judge of the Supreme Court, has had but one candidate, Judge Gray, nominated by both parties.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—The city complete shows that Gray, Republican, also nominated by the Democrats, for Judge of the Superior Court, has been unanimously elected. Stephens, Republican, for Clerk of the County Court, has 2,012 majority, Mattock and Sommer, Democrats, for County Commissioners, each received over 1,700 majority. The total vote of the city is a little over 26,000, or less than half the ordinary full vote. The falling off was not more of a surprise than the defeat of the Republican Commissioners.

Massachusetts Republican.

BOSON, Mass., Nov. 10.—The vote in this State has been unusually light, reports from all parts indicating little general interest in the election.

As an indication of the apathy among voters, returns from thirty-five towns, which gave Long last year 16,507, and Thompson (Democrat) 9,711, now show 9,478 votes for Long and 4,259 for Thompson. The Traveler, says that the vote of Boston with three precints to hear from is, Long (Republican) 15,270. Thompson (Democrat) 12,471. The same authority es imates that Governor Long is re-elected by from 25,030 to 30,000 majority.

Suspicion of Infanticide in York County.

YORK, Nov. 10.—This morning Henry and Mary Smith, who claim a residence in Baltimore, but who had arrived from Lancaster on Sunday and been received at the alms house with their infant child, after leaving the institution applied at a house in town for relief, when it was noticed the baby was dead. The story they told was a sad one, but the Coroner having suspicion, an inquest was held. The child's skull was found to be fractured, and the evidence being damaging, a verdict of death from the hands of its parents was rendered. They were committed to jail to answer.

Telling the Good News.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—Tell all the people, we have met the enemy and their contingent, have downed them and taken them into camp. The plurality for Baily will not be less than 7,000. These figures are based on definite returns from fifty-nine counties and reported returns from eight. Baily is elected and everyone here is feeling good. The Republicans of this city have elected their local ticket by majorities greater than Baily's plurality.

L. ROGERS, Secretary.

Mississippi.

The Democrats of Mississippi claim the election of Lowry, their candidate for Governor, by from 15,000 to 20,000 majority. There was much scratching on local tickets, and the Republicans have elected their candidates in a number of districts.

New Jersey.

New Jersey voted only for a Legislature, and the result showed a complete Republican victory. Both branches of that body have been carried, nothwithstanding the very light vote.

Connecticut.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 9.—The legislature is strongly Republican. Large Republican gains everywhere.

Virginia.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 8.—The Readjusters have carried the State and Cameron is elected.

New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Later returns show that the Republicans have carried the State.

Appeal For The Army.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Gen. Sherman has submitted his annual report to the Secretary of War, enclosing the reports of Generals Drum and Sackett and the reports of the commanding Generals of divisions and departments. General Sherman says, referring to the reports of the latter, that they all show that our companies are too small for efficient discipline and for economical service. When the national treasury was poor and loaded with debt, the army endeavored to gracefully submit to overwork. But now, says General Sherman, they appeal for relief, and it is recommended that Congress repeal that clause of the existing law which limits the enlisted force of the army to 25,000 men. Considerable space is devoted to the discussion of the subject of officers' servants. General Sherman maintaining that no soldier should ever be compelled to do menial labor whithout compensation or without his consent, and he recommends that the existing law be repealed or modified so as to secure this end. Referring to West Point, he says it has been and must continue to be the fountain source of military education in time of peace. In his judgment the Military Academy at West Point fulfills its uses and can safely be entrusted to prepare boys to become the soldiers of the future.

That Cabinet Sensation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Ex-Secretary Windom, referring in a conversation to-day to the alleged difference of opinion between President Arthur and Attorney General MacVeagh at a recent meeting of the Cabinet, said while he does not think it proper for him to discuss the nature of the business transacted at that meeting, he has no hesitation in saying that the published account of the proceedings is entirely without foundation. Nothing occurred which would warrant the assertion that there was any exhibition of ill feeling on the part of either gentleman mentioned. The questions under consideration were discussed in a most friendly spirit, without excitement or disagreement, and no personal criticisms were made by any one. 'Contrary to report,' the Secretary added 'the meeting was perfectly harmonious in every respect.'

Visiting the President.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Among the callers on the President last evening were Dr. Hayes, John R. Lydecker, ex-Collector Thomas Murphy and Police Commissioner Stephen B. French. With the latter he was closeted some time. During the evening the President received a visit from ex-Senator Conkling, but the nature of the interview was not disclosed. President Arthur is expected to leave for Washington to-morrow or Thursday. President Arthur remained at his house to-day, and was called upon by many well known gentlemen, including General Grant, Gen. Horace Porter, John Roach, Richard Grant White and Roger A. Pryor. In the evening the President had a conference with Secretary Blaine in the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

A Fatal Tenement House Fire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—A fire broke out last night in a tenement house on Laight and Varick streets at which several lives were supposed to be lost. The houses was occupied by sixteen families, and the flames, breaking out in the basement, mounted rapidly to the roof through the elevator shaft. The building was soon filled with smoke and it was with the utmost difficulty that any of the inmates were rescued. The mother of Patrick Cunningham could not be found last night, and a family named Targenenti living on the third floor were also missing. Two members of a family named Brundenfield on the third floor are believed to have perished in the fire.

A Round House Destroyed.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 6.—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company's round house was consumed by fire early this morning, with its contents, including a locomotive. Loss $15,000. Incendiary.

A Locomotive Enters a Saloon.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 9.—Locomotive engine 237 got on a rampage about half-past 5 o'clock yesterday morning, and entered the saloon sitting room of John Taphorn, which is located on the corner of Front and Mill streets. Along Front street runs the connection railroad track, and one hundred and fifty feet west of Taphorn's saloon is a frog. A freight train with two engines in the lead and one in the rear, was moving along eastwardly, when engine No. 237, which was in front, jumped the track at the frog, and scooped along at lightning speed until he reached the saloon, when, knowing John kept good beer, and needing a little 'something,' it leered to the left, and, tearing down doors, windows and the whole side of the two story frame house, turned over chairs, stoves, tables and swept everything before it. Taphorn and his wife were wrapped in the arms of Morpheus in the room above, and when the crash came and the floor beside the bed gave way, and the smoke stack stuck its sooty nose and puffed forth huge volumes of smoke into John's bedroom, while the steam whistled, sizzled and belched forth steam, and the bell rang the liveliest fire alarm ever heard, the proprietor and his wife rose right up in bed, blinded by smoke and deafened by the noise, thinking, of course, old Mother Shipton's prophesy had come true that the world was coming to an end, and the devil was on hand, horns, hoof and fire-shovel.

Assistance soon came and the engine was persuaded on the track by the aid of crowbars and jack-screws, after having smashed up things to the tune of about $300. The character of these cars and engines that prowl around Front street at such early hours in the morning, hooting and whistling and shrieking, when all honest folks are abed, is none af the best anyhow. About two weeks ago one of the freight cars "got off its nut" and paid Neil Martin's saloon a visit a few squares beyond, knocking things about. This thing has got to be stopped. A locomotive that can't tell a saloon from a Union depot is as liable to be deceived and imposed upon as was the blind girl who took a band-box for a ten-dollar bill.

Smallpox at Youngstown.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 9.—Another case of smallpox made its appearance at the Municipal Hospital this morning, the patient being the daughter of William Semple, in whose family the disease first started. All the other patients have fully recovered. The girl had been vaccinated, but in this case it did not ward off the disease.

George Forsyth, whose mother resides on Hemlock alley, near Forty-eighth street, Pittsburgh, and who has been a puddler's helper in the Sligo mill, came here yesterday, and has since been testing his capacity for tangle foot. This afternoon he chased a young lady in the Fifth ward with the intention of committing a criminal assault upon her. He was arrested, and denies all knowledge of the affair, giving as an excuse that he was drunk. The affair was witnessed by several persons.

The Search for the Jeanette.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—Schooner Golden Fleece Jacobson master, which left here July 18, with Lieutenant Ray and a signal service party to establish a meterological station at Point Barrow, returned this afternoon. Captain Jacobson reports that on October 7 he spoke the whaling bark Dawn in the Behring Sea, and learned that in the latter part of September the Dawn spoke the United State relief steamer Rogers in the Arctic. Captain Berry reported in brief that he had completely circumnavigated the so-called Wrangle Land, had landed in several places, but failed to find any trace of the Jeannette. He intended to winter either on Wrangle Land or on the neighboring Siberian coast. Beyond establishing the insular character of Wrangle Land the cruise of the Rogers had so far been barren of results.

Five Seamen Perish.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 9.—The schooner Dilia Hodgkins capsized in a squall on the morning of Friday last about four miles off Pollock Rip light house ship. The captain and crew succeeded in getting aboard again and launching a boat, in which they left the schooner. They pulled all day for the light ship, but failed to make it owing to the wind and current, and during the night four men died from cold and exhaustion and their bodies were thrown into the sea. On Saturday morning the fifth man died. That evening the survivors were picked up and landed on Sunday at West Dennis, Mass. The names of the dead are: Edward Dup, Daniel Hudson, William Townley, Lorence Chapman, and the first mate S. H. Miner.

Politics in Spain.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The Madrid correspondent of the Times, commenting on the split in the Democratic party by the withdrawal of Senor Martos and his followers from the support of Senor Zorrilla's programme, says: 'With the secession of Senores Martos, Echegaray and Montero Rios and other eminent men, only an insignificant fraction of the revolutionary part remains, which is incapable of mischief. It is probable that the section under Martos will unite with Castelar. The primary effect of the action of the Martos section is to strengthen the dynasty and the guarantees of peaceful progress.

Cowed by a Plucky Jailer.

An unsuccessful attempt to escape was made by the twenty-five prisoners confined in the south corridor of the Camden County Jail on Monday, but for the coolness and pluck of Warden Swindell they might have regained their liberty, thus adding another chapter to the long list of escapes from this place. Mr. Swindell went into the corridor, where the men were walking up and down, for the purpose of examining their cells, according to his daily custom. Jack McGrath, a burly, broad-shouldered fellow, gave the signal for all hands to close in on the jailer. At the same time he sprang at Swindell, intending to fell him with a round of a stool. Swindell shook him off and quickly drawing both revolver and blackjack, kept the men at bay until he reached the gate. He then commanded them to retreat to the other end of the corridor, threatening to shoot any man who should refuse. They all cowered and Swindell, hastily turning, inserted the key in the lock, opened the door and got out. Aid was secured and the prisoners were shut up in their cells, where they will be kept closely confined for ten days.

WHO could have expected to hear of a Rothschild, one of the great Rothschilds, dying from financial troubles? Yet the Rothschild who died in Paris the other day is said to have been killed by excitement consequent upon a monetary loss. It is true that the loss was heavy. Report places it at sixteen million dollars, which is a larger sum than even a Rothschild can lose with equanimity. But their are capitalists in the United States who could bear as heavy a blow without being broken by it.

Personal Remarks.

Mrs. Garfield intends herself to supervise the preparation of a biography of her husband. Whatever portion she contributes will be thoroughly well done, for she is a scholarly and accomplished woman and has a graceful literary style.

The Grand Duke and Duchess of Baden found among the presents at their recent silver wedding a huge plae tree made of solid silver—trunk, branches and cone. It was intended not only to remind the pair of their German home, but to commemorate the traditions of the House of Baden, in which the pine plays a prominent part.

A Church Destroyed.

NEWVILLE, Nov. 6.—The United Presbyterian church was destroyed by fire about 2 o'clock this morning. Loss, $15,000; insurance, about $8,000. The origin of the fire is unknown.

THE RETURNS.

The Borough is Carried by the Democrats, but their Majority in the County is Reduced.

The elections on Tuesday passed off pleasantly in this borough. No disturbance of any kind occurred to interrupt perfect good feeling and harmony. The Democracy were much elated early in the evening to discover that Noble had a majority of four in the borough for State Treasurer. This was, of course, part owing to the fact of Wolfe's independent candidacy, but much more because of a perfect system of "selling out" adopted by certain unscrupulous Republicans. They gave a vote for the whole Democratic ticket in exchange for a single Rankin vote. Many Democrats also seemed to be strangely interested in Rankin's success. Much interest centered about the candidacy of Rankin and Campbell as commissioners, and the news received early in the evening placed Rankin far ahead, but the later news has resulted in giving Campbell a handsome majority. We give below the vote in as many of the townships and boroughs as space will permit. The rest will be given to-morrow:

—A good Baptist clergyman of Bergen, N. Y., a strong temperance man, suffered with kidney trouble, neuralgia and dizziness almost to blindness, over two years after he was told that Hop Bitters would cure him, because he was afraid of and prejudiced against "Bitters." Since his cure he says none need fear but trust in Hop Bitters.

Terms, $2.00 per annum in Advance

Local Department.

—Quietness prevails since the election.

—The "beautiful snow" delays its coming.

—Yesterday afternoon resembled October weather.

—Another fine rain visited this vicinity on Saturday.

—Saturday, despite the rain, was a "big day" for trade. Hundreds of turkeys and chickens were brought to town.

—Tramps are growing more numerous. Scarcely a day passes but a tramp appears at your door for bread or money.

—Beware of speculative life insurance. It is a delusion and a fraud. Invest in the genuine article or spurn it altogether.

—Nothing of note occurred Saturday night, and the police officers had little trouble in preserving "the magesty of the law."

—The large brick building on Allegheny street occupied by Mrs. Dare and owned by Dr. E. W. Hale, is being repainted and repaired.

—A letter lies in the Bellefonte post-office addressed to "Miss Rebecca Holmes, Birmingham, Huntingdon Co., Pa." It is detained for postage.

—Another dramatic entertainment is promised for Friday evening next, when "Kathleen's Dream" will be presented by the Osborne Comedy Company.

—Several members of Company B intended to practice marksmanship last Saturday afternoon, but the bad weather prevented them indulging in that sport.

—Mr. Cal. Harper received the largest vote of any candidate at the election on Tuesday. We know of no other Democrat so worthy the compliment.

—Mariah Welsh, a respectable colored woman of this borough, who died on Monday last, was buried on Tuesday afternoon. The attendance at the funeral was very large.

—Mr. Charley Hamm, the genial and accommodating chief clerk of the Bush House, is one of the most popular young men of town, and his kind and winning manners are gaining hosts of friends for the house.

—The sale of the property of the Building and Loan Association, which was to have taken place last Saturday afternoon, has been postponed until next Saturday, when it is hoped inclement weather will not interfere with its successful disposal.

—Rev. George Penypacker Wednesday changed his place of residence from the former M. E. parsonage on Curtin street to the house recently vacated by J. Newman, Jr., on Spring street. The reverend gentleman will find the change very agreeable.

—Now that Thanksgiving day has been announced the turkeys, chickens, geese and all other fowls over which people are accustomed to give thanks have begun to roost very high. Roosters crow loudly at all hours of the night over their anticipated doom. Poor things, their lives are brief and fleeting.

—The Osborne Comedy Company, which will visit Bellefonte next Friday night, usually performs only in the larger cities. The Rochester Chronicle says that when they appeared in that city Mrs. Osborne performed in the title role of "Kathleen's Dream." It was well played and heartily enjoyed by a large and select audience."

—The old furnace at the glass works was fired up on Thursday last, but the "crown" of the furnace failed to stand the heat. It has been taken off and a new one of fire brick is now being put on. The manufacture of window glass will certainly be commenced next week. Mr. Davis, the partner at present in town, will make Bellefonte his permanent place of residence. He is a very pleasant gentleman, and we wish him and his partner success.

—Miss Ada Eisenhuth, of Millheim, is now suffering from a terrible injury which she received on Sunday of last week. When she with a party of other acquaintances, returned in a spring wagon from church, she refused the aid of gentlemen to alight from the vehicle and independently attempted to leap from it herself. In doing so her dress caught in the lock of the wagon and she fell headlong to the pavement. For a time it was thought that her injuries were fatal, but she is now recovering, though considerably injured about the face and chest.

TROUBLESOME GHOSTS.

Their First Visit to Bellefonte—How They Terrify the Inhabitants of the Neighborhood.

Ghosts are not altogether pleasant companions. We do not think Bellefonte was ever before troubled with their presence, but there is no doubt that a certain elegant mansion in Bellefonte has fallen a prey to them, and last night they made it the scene of their visitations and fearful maraudings. The house was once occupied by a family of vast wealth and aristocratic standing. Several deaths occurred, saddening the once happy household, and the remaining members of the family, weary of all things terrestrial and sighing for the celestial pulled up stakes and departed for scenes and haunts beyond the knowledge of the neighborhood. The magnificent furniture was left behind arranged in solitary grandeur. Silken curtains, elegantly embroidered, still drape the French plate glass windows Through the glimmering light within palatial abode can be seen heavy mahogany furniture splendidly upholstered in the highest style of the up holsterers' art. Paintings after the finest Italian and English masters adorn the walls. The careful observer can also catch a glimpse of an elegant winding stairway which leads to the second floor, where the scene of most of the startling and supernatural events which we expect to relate took place.

From its associations, the sad history which lingers about it, and the rumors which add interest and romance to the tale, a more probable place for the existence of ghosts could not be imagined. The night was dark —one of those nocturnal hours when supernatural thoughts fill the heart and monopolize the head, when graveyards yawn and give up their dead, when all is strange and mysterious. We wended our way along the streets. The gas lamps were like the eyes of spirits from the fiery world. We ascended the marble steps, followed a quiet, awe stricken guide into the wide, splendid hall, deposited our outer garments on the gold mounted rack, and after leaving the softly carpeted entrance behind us, ascended the wide staircase into a spacious apartment on the second floor. We waited until twelve o'clock with beating hearts, but in perfect silence. No sound disturbed the silence. The solitude was awful. But when the fatal midnight hour arrived every door in the house was thrown open, chains rattled, lights glimmered, white, ghost-like creatures flitted about. Swiftly they glided before us. None spoke until we (ed tors are more courageous than ordinary folks) said in solemn tones: "Whence came thou here, O mighty ghost?" None spake, but each looked sad. At length the leader gave his chains another rattle and advancing toward us thrust a scrap of paper in our hand and then they all vanished. As soon as they departed the silvery-toned clock struck the hour of one. This roused us to consciousness. We looked at the paper in our hand. On it was inscribed, "Behold we are they who have run for office and were not elected. Twice each year do we come forth in Centre county, for then we receive new accessions to our ranks. To-night we have received the largest delegation ever added at one time Throughout eternity we are doomed to live on disappointed hopes. Woe unto us."

Do not fear; the ghosts will trouble Bellefonte no more until spring, and that will be as nothing compared with Tuesday night.

Political Recollections.

A friend in Lemont informs us that he has in possession a list of the voters of the general election held in Harris township in October, 1837. There were in all 129 votes cast. Five years ago fifteen of these gentlemen were still living. Since then Major John Hasson and George Murrey, soldiers of the war of 1812, have died, and also Samuel Wilson and David Kimport, leaving now only eleven, all of which voted at the last election. The township is now divided, five of the votes being polled in Haines township and six in College. Those voting in Haines township were George Jack, Esq., Messrs. William H. Miller, Robert Galbraith and Joseph Swinehart and one other whose name we have not learned. Those in College township were Messrs. Moses Thompson, James Green, Evan Thomas, Jonathan Kreamer, Emanuel Duey and Joseph Baker. Their average age is 72 years. The last mentioned is a native of Howard township, but his first vote was cast in Harris.

—A friend requests us to announce that the debt of Centre county is $80,000, but that as we now have three economical commissioners we may expect this large sum to steadily diminish in amount.

—Now that the agony is over, how do you feel, Mr. Candidate?

JOURNEY TO THE MOON.

A Bellefonter's Strange Adventure—What the Moon is Like.

Much interest has always been attached to fair Luna as she glides almost nightly over her usual course through the skies. Speculation has been indulged in by astronomers and others, but the truth about the moon has at last been revealed by the wonderful adventure of a Bellefonte gentleman last night. It is thought with much show of truth that the ancients who erected the Tower of Bable thought they could at least climb into the moon, but that one night when all the workmen had ascended to the top of the unfinished edifice, which was then about five miles high, the air above them became so rare that they were all struck dumb, and could only chatter an unintelligible language. Previous to this they had all spoken a language of great melody and wonderful sweetness, but the chattering resolved itself into the various languages and dialects now employed by the various nations of the earth. But this Bellefonte gentleman has at last succeeded in visiting the moon without the experience of the Tower of Bable crowd. Be it known that although the moon is 96,000,000 of miles from the earth the mountains of the moon are 95,000,000 of miles high, making the real distance only 1,000,000 miles. Last night at one o'clock this gentlemen, whose name we prefer not to mention, went to the roof of his house, and by a wonderful trial of his powers stepped upon the highest mountain in the moon. His experience as he wandered down the mountain and around through the countless crags and peaks of that mysterious orb are too numerous to relate, but in the course of his wandering he encountered the man in the moon, who was of great stature and very handsome, and winks at the girls in Bellefonte whenever he has opportunity. The only occupation in which this lonely inhabitant of the moon indulges is to manufacture cheese. He has a large factory for the purpose, in comparison with which the Centennial buildings sink into insignificance. Nine million cattle grazing on the sides of the mountains furnish milk for this purpose. The chese manufactured is the most delicious ever produced by a dairy, but strange to say it is as green as the waters of Niagara. The man in the moon confidentially informed his visitor that this accounts for the green hue of the grass, leaves and other productions of the earth. If it were not for this fact yellow would be the prevailing color. "Whoever believes this story is also green," said the Lunar man, and gave his visitor a sudden push, when he found himself again on his own housetop, quite amazed at his adventure.

Week of Prayer.

This week is being observed by the Young Men's Christian Associations throughout the world as a season of prayer. The Association in this place will hold meetings every evening (except Wednesday) from 7:15 until 8 o'clock. Capable leaders have been secured for every evening. Rev. S. E. Furst, of the Lutheran church, will lead the general meeting on Sunday afternoon at four o'clock. D. S. Keller, Esq., will be the leader on Monday evening. Other announcements will be made during the week. We have already given the topics of the meetings and will not repeat them.

The Association work is being carried on energetically. The Ladies Auxiliary, which met on Thursday afternoon, made arrangements to provide the young men's reading room with a rag carpet and appropriate mottos. A magic lantern for the entertainment of the boys will soon be provided.

—We have been informed that the proprietors of the glass works will begin the manufacture of glass at the time originally intended—next Sunday night at 12 o'clock. The pots and other necessary machinery are now being put in position and everything is moving along finely. The employes will arrive on Friday. They will occupy the houses in the vicinity of the glass works, the present occupants of the houses having been notified to vacate. It is our desire to give all the news and have it correct, hence this contradiction of an item which recently appeared in this journal, announcing that the time for the first manufacture of glass had been postponed. We are glad that such is not the case. Hurrah, for the glass works!

—"The leaves are falling and tenderly covering the graves of the dead summer, while the winds hum their dirges through the shivering branches telling that winter is coming and will soon bind the waters in its icy embrace," and force the tired man of family to crawl out of bed at five o'clock in the morning, rap up the servant girl, thaw out the water pipes and shovel the snow off the pavement.

CENTRE COUNTY'S WEALTH.

Treasures That Lie Hidden Beneath Us—Millions of Unearthed Riches.

In estimating our possessions it is so customary to include only houses, money, live stock and visible property that we forget the far greater mineral possessions with which the land of our county, in common with the surrounding counties, is literally "teaming." But come with us into the bosom of Mother Earth and view the millions of riches which that kind Matron has for hundreds of centuries been providing for the children that should tread her soil. She contains the wealth of past civilizations. Obliterated cities of marvelous magnificence lie in her h'dden depths. The Sun God combined with atmospheric changes has been storing away for myriad years great seams of coal and iron, which are easily obtainable and will minister to the wealth of future generations more than any visible possessions. Look at Snow Shoe and all along the borders of Clearfield county. The black diamonds are just now being unearthed, and residents of apparently barren lands are beginning to realize their riches. Listen to the reports of enormous discoveries of iron on the lands of Mr. Daniel Rhoads at Loveville, on the lands of the Gordon Brothers, and at other points which we cannot now recall. Where and when will it stop? Never. As long as man shall exist on the earth so long will that kind mistress continue to support him. The sensational rumors of destroyed forests and barren lands promising starvation to future generations are mere imaginations of the mind. Expend all the capital and labor you can in mining and manufacturing, and the material to carry on this industry will not be exhausted, but will continue to increase a thousand fold.

Death's Doings.

The death is announced of Mrs. Barbara Rarick, of Cass county, Michigan. She was formerly a resident of Pleasant Gap, this county, and a daughter of the late venerable John Letherman, whom our readers will remember made the journey from his old home in this county to live with his son in Michigan, and who died a few months after arriving in that State. Mrs. Rarick has numerous friends in Centre county, who will be extremely pained to learn of her decease.

On Saturday we received intelligence of the death of Mr. Robert Doak, which occurred on the morning of that day at his residence in this place. This will cause sadness to all who knew Robert. He was an impulsive, warm hearted man and an excellent mechanic. We believe he was a member of the Presbyterian church. He leaves a wife and several children. A dropsical affection was the cause of his death.

—The Democrat is of opinion that Charles Jefferson Duffield, Joseph Duffield and Elizabeth Duffield, who live at Beech Creek and Eagleville, this county, are the legal heirs of one John Duffield, of Goya, Argentine Republic, who was murdered some time ago, and who left large possessions behind him. J. L. Spangler, Esq., is the legal agent in the matter and expects to be able to prove the right of the above named persons to the property.

—Some of our contemporaries complain that winter apples are scarce and of bad quality. The reverse is the case in Centre county. All the apples we have seen recently are "perfectly delicious," and make the best apple pie, dumplings and "curds" ever eaten. We can, therefore, heartily sympathize with our unfortunate neighbors in other counties.

—Miss Laura Keller, of Lock Haven, is gaining an enviable reputation as a public reader. She has been invited to give instructions in this art before the teachers' institute of Cameron county, which meets at Driftwood on the 28th of November.

—What a pleasant, easy time the hod-carriers on the Centre County Bank building are having! All they do is to carry the mortar and brick to the top of the building, and the men above do all the work.

—The 10:03 a. m. mail train Friday was detained between Unionville and Snow Shoe Intersection by the breaking of the "eccentric" on the engine. The train arrived about twelve oclock.

—A few picked members of Company B will visit Johnstown on Thanksgiving Day to engage in a trial of marksmanship with an equal number from Company H, of that place.

—Centre county now has a Bible for recorder. If the records are not kept in a correct manner people will be inclined to "go back" on the Bible. Is it the Revised Edition?

A LEADING CITIZEN.

The Fine Establishment and Public Benefactions of Mr. Wm. R. Miller, of Sandy Ridge.

There is no part of this county which is in every respect more pleasant to visit than Sandy Ridge. The people of every community either commend or condemn it to the casual visitor, and we judge Sandy Ridge by the people from that vicinity whom it has been our pleasure to encounter as well as by the place itself. Again it is equally true and has been attested by all history that the character of every community partakes of and is influenced by the tone of its leading citizens. How fortunate, then, it is when any section can glory in the personal presence and public benificence of the gentleman who forms the subject of this brief sketch, Wm. R. Miller, Esq., of Sandy Ridge.

We believe he was at one time a resident of Altoona, but about 1873 he left that city to take up his future residence at Sandy Ridge. His motive for removing there was to enjoy a more salubrious climate than was obtainable in Altoona and also to carry on the immense Fire Brick Works originally started by his father, who we believe still resides in Altoona. Thus the works are now in the possession of the second generation and are in a more prosperous condition than ever before. We forget the exact figures, but believe the establishment gives employment to about 100 experienced workmen and has an annual capacity of something like 7,300,000 fire brick. Now that the product of this factory promises to be in some demand in the erection of future furnaces, ovens, &c., incident to the opening of new industries in this place, our friends who are interested in those enterprizes will find the factory of Mr. Miller a convenient, reliable and advantageous place to purchase.

But aside from the extensive business in which Mr. Miller is engaged, his style of living and generous hospitality also deserve attention. He and his charming wife reside in a beautiful frame residence, picturesquely located on the top of the Allegheny mountains overlooking scenery of indescribable loveliness. The elegant and costly furniture and all the surroundings of the dwelling mark the occupants as persons of more than ordinary cultivation and refinement. Mrs. Miller is a lady of fine culture and varied accomplishments and excels in brilliant conversation. Her maiden home was in New York City. They are contemplating a yet more magnificent home, the erection of which will soon be commenced. In this charming and secluded retreat the happy couple reside, surrounded by all that wealth can provide. When weather will permit they can take their choice of a superb $500 buggy or a new and elegant Victoria carriage which cost about $900, or a "tea" cart of unique and novel design, and ride at will through the surrounding country. They can also select from a magnificent collection of horses, among which are two Hambletonians of great value. They usually spend the warm season at one of the popular summer resorts, taking with them their elegant equipage and gold-mounted harness. Mr. and Mrs. Miller are both under thirty years of age, of fine health and have a promise of many years of happiness and prosperity before them.

In conclusion we will mention that Mr. Miller is an ardent Republican, and does much to aid his party in that section of the county.

Serious Accident.

A young son of Mr. Andrew Goodfellow, residing near Mt. Eagle, while playing with a dog on Tuesday morning, struck him with a switch. The dog becoming enraged, jumped at the boy, seizing him by the cheek, seriously lacerating it. Dr. H. K. Hoy, the young and popular physician of this place, was summoned to the boy's assistance, and dressed the wound in a skillful manner, and it is now doing as well as could be expected. The boy exhibited considerable fortitude dering the painful operation.

—On Wednesday night last while Rev. George Penypacker, of the M. E. church, was moving his household goods into his new residence on Spring street he had occasion to leave several articles, including a child's carriage, on the pavement near the M. E. church building. During the night some boys took the carriage and wheeled it through the town, again leaving it near the church in an almost wrecked condition. The carriage cost $25 and the boys should be ashamed of themselves for their malicious action.

—Mr. Samual F. Diehl, of Marion township, was married on Monday last to Miss Maggie A. Meese, of Howard, Rev. George P. Hartzell, of the Reformed church, Jacksonville, performing the ceremony.

—Summer lingers in the lap of fall.

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. John Evans, of Altoona, were visiting friends in Bellefonte.

Hon. A. G. Curtin and Wm. H. Blair, Esq., have been absent from town on a western trip this week.

Mr. Thomas Nolan and lady, of Washington, returned to their homes in that place Thursday afternoon.

Miss Maggie Snowden, recently a music teacher in Bellefonte and now engaged in the Conservatory of Music, Pittsburg, is visiting in town.

R. M. Magee, Esq., has been absent from town on insurance business this week. On Wednesday he registered at the City Hotel, Williamsport.

Ex-Senator S. R. Reale, one of Lock Haven's best lawyers, and one of the chief actors in the Humes vs. Bird Coal and Iron Company ejectment suit, arived in town last evening.

Mr. Frank Keller will take his departure for Washington Friday. He is employed in the Census department in that city, and is also attending a law school. His labors in connection with the Census department will soon terminate.

Mr. F. A. Winter, of Altoona, who was in town last week on an engagement with the music firm of Bunnell & Aikens, returned to his home in that city on Thursday evening. He intends to return to Bellefonte on Monday, however, to fill several other engagements of a similar nature. He understands the mechanism of the piano thoroughly, and makes a specialty of tuning that instrument. Those requiring his service can leave their orders at Bunnell & Aikens' music store.

On the African Coast.

Our friends, doubtless, all remember Mr. Spencer C. Ogden and his mother who departed from this country about one year ago to make their home in Liberia, West Africa. Spencer's letters to the DAILY NEWS have been entertaining and instructive. We regretted to hear, therefore, some time ago that his health was failing and that a change of climate was necessary. He has recently been on a sea voyage and his health has so far recovered that he now weighs over 150 pounds. Spencer and his mother have changed their location and are now further south, where we hope the climate will not interfere with their prosperity.

—This is market morning. Moderate weather continues so late this year those having produce to sell can attend market without suffering inconvenience from cold, greatly to the advantage of the residents of town.

—Persons in all circumstances of life should exercise care in the choice of language. One of the men in the employ of the Nail Works Company has been discharged for using profane language.

—Nothing is so delicious and healthful as white crisp celery. We hope our agricultural friends are making arrangements for a plentiful supply during the winter.

—The air yesterday was cold and raw and weather prophets hinted that a snow storm was lurking in this vicinity.

—Howorth's Hibernica appeared in the Opera House Saturday night, and played fairly to a large audience.

—The rains of last week filled many cisterns which have been without water for a long time.
